ISLANDER PILES UP ON ROCKS IN STORM

Members of Coast Guard Make Valiant but Futile Attempts at Rescue

(Associated Press)

FOWEY, Cornwall, Eng., Aug. 21.—The 52-ton yacht, Islander, wrecked upon the jagged rocks of Lantivet Bay last night in a violent storm which pounded the English South Coast, carried Commodore Henry Dousing King, a prominent member of Parliament, and five other men to death.

Those on the shore, while the yacht was breaking up, declared they had heard cries of women and children aboard, but so far no can be learned only men occupied the vessel. Other reports said the bodies of two young children had been washed ashore. Police officials stated tonight that this was untrue.

THOSE WHO PERISHED

Those with Commodore King, who had chartered the Islander August 9 for a vacation cruise, were Commander Searle, of Bexhill; Arthur Tweed; Surgeon Captain A. R. Hailey; Dunmow Essex; Captain Blashbrook, of Bishop Stortford; Harry Lucas, captain of the yacht, and his seventeen-year-old brother, Walter.

The yacht, which was owned by Lieut.-Col. John W. Diggle, who was

Twenty Communist Leaders Are Arrested Within Walls of Chinese Capital

PLANNED TO DYNAMITE VARIOUS STRUCTURES

Nationalists Confiscate Stores of Explosives and Quantity of Literature

NANKING, Aug. 22.—Government authorities today announced the arrests of Communist leaders within the walls of the capital, and the frustration of a plot to overthrow the Nationalist Government, which included the dynamiting of various Government buildings here.

Authorities said among those arrested was a fashionably dressed foreign girl, whom they declined as saying she was doing Red espionage work among Government officials.

Officials said they confiscated stores of explosives and Communist literature, large quantities of which had been circulated throughout the capital during the last several days.

The Communists planned to create disturbances within the capital, authorities said, as part of their lawless programme.

VANCOUVER COUNCIL REJECTS COMPANY'S GAS CHARGES OFFER

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—The civic utilities committee of the city council this morning rejected the British Columbia Electric Railway's offer of a 70-cent monthly minimum charge for gas if the company is to abolish the 35-cent monthly meter assessment.

The 70-cent minimum would be applicable to consumers of 300 cubic feet of gas and less.

The committee will ask the council to urge a 50-cent minimum charge.

Fair Continues to Draw Large Crowd; Judging Completed

Success of 1930 Venture Is Assured as Attendance Figures Exceed 1929 Totals—Judge Comments on Sheep, Classes Showing

WITH judging complete, with the exception of a few classes of horses, the fifty-eighth annual exhibition of the British Columbia Agricultural Association is entering the final stage with official closing fixed for Saturday night. In reviewing the past week's activities at the Willows officials of the association, judges and exhibitors express keen satisfaction with public support and interest shown in the various sections of the fair and believe there is every reason to be justly proud of the results obtained.

Yesterday was another big day at the grounds and although the total for attendance did not come up to the Wednesday total, there was no disappointment. Exhibitors, working in harmony with Fair officials, gave the patrons a good afternoon and evening's entertainment. The rides and sideshow along the midway reported "good money" for the day. Today the special features will be the livestock judging competition, which takes place at 10:30, and the sheep-shearing contest which is scheduled for the afternoon.

At the noon hour the Stockbreeders' Association will hold its annual meeting in the Agriculture Building, at which the speakers will be William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture; Mayor Anscomb and Dr. G. Peterson, vice-president of the British Columbia Agricultural Association.

At 8 o'clock in the evening the annual meeting of the British Columbia Agricultural Association will be held, at which W. J. Mudie, president, will preside.

The regular daily programme of events will be carried out according to schedule Friday and the judging of remaining classes. The midway will operate up to the closing hour, 11 o'clock.

SHEEP SECTION EXCELS

John Wilson, noted sheep and beef cattle breeder and a prominent showman, of Innisfail, Alberta, who was judge of the sheep section, stated at the conclusion of his work yesterday afternoon that the exhibit of sheep at the Victoria Fair was very good and about the best he had seen in Canada this year. "The Shropshire, Southdowns and Suffolk entries were particularly good and island breeders are to be congratulated for their success against some of the best flocks of Western Canada and the United States." Former American Envoy To Germany Says Fifty-Nine Persons Rule U.S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—In the opinion of James W. Gerard, formerly Ambassador to Germany, fifty-nine men "rule the United States."

Mr. Gerard compiled a list of these men for today's New York Times, which asked him to amplify a sentence in a pamphlet he wrote endorsing the crusade of Viscount Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook for British Empire free trade with high protection. In that pamphlet he wrote, "Only fifty-nine men who rule the United States control the development of this industrial empire (the British Empire) and no country on earth could approach it in per capita wealth."

SMITH U.S. PRESIDENT

Explaining why he, as an American, should write on the subject, Mr. Gerard wrote, "I offer as my excuse the interest that America, in common with all the world, has in the preservation of British property."

The list includes leaders in American finance, industry, the management field and journalism, but omits President Hoover and all others holding state and national offices except Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon.

Mr. Gerard explains the actual "power behind the throne" is wielded by men whose wealth and important industrial positions in the nation give them a permanent influence in American life. Statesmen, he said, are usually shorn of most of their power when they retire.

LIST IN ORDER

The list in the order given by Mr. Gerard follows: John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; Andrew W. Mellon; J. P. Morgan, George F. Baker, banker; John D. Ryan, copper magnate; Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; Henry Ford; Frederick S. Weyerhauser, lumber magnate; Myron C. Taylor, chairman of finance committee, United States Steel Corporation; James A. Farrell, president, United States Steel Corporation; Charles M. Schwab, chairman, Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Eugene G. Grace, president, Bethlehem Steel Corporation; H. W. Harper and Adolph Lukor, motion picture magnates; William H. Crocker, banker; C. P. and M. J. Sweeney, railroad magnates; W. W. Atterbury, president Pennsylvania Railroad; Daniel Willard, James, large holder of railroad securities; Charles Hayden, financier; Daniel V. Jackling, president, Utah Copper Company; Arthur V. Davis, president, Aluminum Company of America; Albert H. Wiggin, banker; Charles E. Mitchell, banker; Harper Sibley, electric power magnate; the seven Fisher brothers, motor magnates; Daniel Guggenheim and William Loeb, mining magnates; G. W. Hill, president American Tobacco Company; Adolph S. Ochs, publisher; William Randolph Hearst, publisher; Robert R. McCormick and Joseph Medill Patterson, publishers; Julius Rosenwald, merchant; Cyrus H. K. Curtis, publisher, and Roy W. M. Ward, publisher

Royal Family Is Happy

DUKE & DUCHESS of YORK KING GEORGE V.

A DAUGHTER was born to the Duke and Duchess of York at Glamis Castle, Scotland, on Thursday. She is the second daughter of the Duke and Duchess and the fourth grandchild of the King and Queen. Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, was in attendance at the Castle to attest the birth of an heir to the throne, as required by ancient custom.

B.C. PREMIER TELLS OF LABOR SITUATION

Hon. S. F. Tolmie Stresses Urgent Need of Export Markets in Address Before Unemployment Conference at Ottawa—Reviews Conditions in Mining, Lumber and Farming

Representatives of All Provinces Attend Parley

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Unemployment in all its phases and as it affects every part of Canada was reviewed today at the opening of the annual meeting of the Unemployment Service Council of Canada. While the council has not yet got down to the business of suggesting remedies, various speakers mentioned higher tariffs, public works, road building and the co-operation of Provincial Governments to municipalities and restriction of immigration as means of alleviating the present condition.

From the two representatives of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, James Simpson, of Toronto, and J. T. Foster, of Montreal, came a warning that all these things could effect only temporary relief, declaration that it was time to give thought to a permanent solution and a hint that this would involve an extensive change in the economic system.

TOLMIE TELLS OF B.C.

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Prime Minister of British Columbia, said conditions in the Pacific provinces were serious. The chief contributing factors were the declining price of silver and other metals which caused many of the smaller mines to close down. A falling off in the offshore demand for British Columbia products caused the logging camps to curtail production, and there was a reduced demand for paper.

Last session the Provincial Legislature had doubled its appropriation for public works. A great many men

KAPOOR FLAMES CUT RAIL LINES AT TWO POINTS

C.N.R. Bridge Reconstruction Is Being Pushed to Completion

LOGGING RAILWAY IS ALSO INTERCEPTED

Two bridges, each 100 feet long, went down in the fire which swept the Kapoor Lumber Company's plant this week, it was learned yesterday when the main line Canadian National Railways bridge, of heavy timber construction, crossing a creek at the site, was burned out. Alongside it a logging railway bridge constructed last year by the mill owners, with the help of the Department of Public Works, suffered a similar fate. Several box cars on the siding were destroyed by the blaze.

Railway crews were early on the scene and reported last evening that they hoped to have communications restored again possibly sometime to-

Robertson, Minister of Labor, on unemployment figures, there are 113,946 people out of work in Canada, and it is estimated this number will increase to 198,000 during the Winter. Mr. Robertson gave these figures to the Employment Service Council of Canada today at the opening of its annual meeting.

The figures, he pointed out, did not include fourteen or fifteen centres which had not reported, or six number who never report at all.

VANCOUVER TO PAY WORKERS INCREASE IN WAGES SHORTLY

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—Arrangements to pay recently-granted increases in wage increases to city employees will be completed by the end of this month, it was indicated at a meeting of the City Council.

The council instructed the personnel committee to present the final report on classification and ratings to the aldermanic board at 2 p.m. on August 27, so the increases may be put into effect with as little delay as possible.

It was recently decided by the city, as a compromise with employees, that half the amount of the increases recommended in the British salary report will be paid to city staffs, and that such advances will be retroactive to January 1

Daughter Is Born to Duchess of York at Old Scottish Castle

Grandchild of King and Queen Is Fourth Heir to British Throne—Mother and Little Princess Reported Making Good Progress

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 22.—The King's only daughter-in-law, the Duchess of York, in Glamis Castle tonight, gave birth to a daughter, her second child. The baby is another heir-presumptive to the English Throne. In line of succession she stands fourth following her uncle, the Prince of Wales; her father, and her four-year-old sister, Princess Elizabeth.

The royal mother and the little princess are making "highly satisfactory progress," an official bulletin from the grey old castle stated. News of the birth was immediately flashed by telegraph to King George and Queen Mary, who are staying until tomorrow at their Norfolk estate of Sandringham. Their Majesties quickly sent back messages of congratulation to the duke and the duchess.

IS FOURTH

The baby is the fourth grandchild of the King and Queen. The others are Princess Elizabeth, and the two sons of Princess Mary, Viscountess Harewood.

Already there is talk of a name for the new princess. Loyal Scotsmen are suggesting "Margaret," the old Scottish royal name. As the princess is the first royal born in Scotland in 300 years, they feel they can have their desire.

John R. Clyne, Home Secretary of the Labor Government, officially attested the royal birth. He and R. B. Lund, ecclesiastical secretary of the Home Office, were both at the castle in accordance with an ancient tradition that the Government in power must guarantee the genuineness of heirs presumptive to the throne.

Nurse Bevers, who attended the princess and Prince Elizabeth, is with her tonight. Dr. David Miles, of Edinburgh, and Dr. Lumsden, are the duchess since her childhood. He is the family doctor of her parents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore.

TIDINGS FLASHED ABROAD

As soon as the King and Queen had been notified, a telegram was sent to the Home Office in London, by telephone, telegraph and cable the tidings were flashed to the Empire and the world at large.

Tomorrow night the great beacon of logs piled by the country folk on Hunter's Hill, two miles from Glamis Castle, will be set afire to celebrate the event.

In the village of Glamis, nestling near the castle, men and women lay aside shouted to each other "a daughter."

Outside, when the little princess was born, there was a night of wild weather, with whipping rain, thunder and lightning—a fitting setting of the elements such as the witches of Macbeth bespoke of.

HOME SECRETARY CALLED

In its violence, the wind had torn down the telephone lines between Glamis Castle and Airlie Castle, where Home Secretary Clyne had been waiting. The line had just been repaired when an urgent summons came for him, and he left immediately for the castle. Under English constitutional law the Home Secretary must be on hand when a possible heir to the throne is born.

Half Million Mark Passed By Taxpayers

Passing the half-million dollar mark with a comfortable margin in the prepayment of taxes received by the city treasurer, the city of Victoria holds an enviable position and one which shows the standing of the ratepayers of the community to be well above the average as compared with other cities of similar size in the Dominion of Canada.

Up to August 18, ratepayers had paid into the city treasury the sum of $500,719.21 net to the corporation. By the prepayment of their taxes the taxpayers earned a total of $14,033.85 in interest rebates. In 1929 the total amount realized by the city in prepaid taxes was $517,- 881.67 and with eight days of August still remaining, in which amounts will be paid, the 1930 showing is considerably better than it was for the full period of 1929.

The last date on which taxpayers will be allowed the interest rebate is August 31. The total amount of taxes collected by the city for 1930 is given as $1,778,410.33.

Australian Sculler Wins Empire Championship in Great Race Before 70,000

BURLINGTON, Ont., Aug. 21.—Bobby Pearce, super-sculler from "down under," tonight crowned his brilliant career. Pearce, his body sinews standing out under terrific strain and a grim smile on his face, rowed three of the British Empire's premier oarsmen into submission and won the singles sculling championship of the Empire decisively.

It was a great race, this race of the Australian and Olympic champion, Pearce, before the brilliant career has he shown to better advantage. While a crowd estimated at 75,000 cheered, Pearce took the lead in the first mile and forty yards grind, and from then to the end rowed steadily ahead, gaining by inches, but never relinquishing for a moment his lead.

WON BY THREE LENGTHS

When nearing the finish he spurted slightly. He pulled still farther ahead and finally, in one mad but inspiring rush, slid over the line easily three lengths in front of Jack Beresford of England, three times winner of the Diamond Sculls.

Two Empire fours, without and with coxswains, also created considerable excitement tonight. In the first England defeated the Dublin Club of Halifax, Nova Scotia, while New Zealand club was third. The English crew finished going away five lengths ahead of the Eastern Canada crew, England was eight lengths still farther behind.

In the Empire fours with coxswains, the Australians gained sweet revenge when they defeated the Canadian team, McGill Graduate, and the British Guiana crew. The Antipodeans were four lengths ahead of their Canadian rivals, while British Guiana was two lengths behind the McGill crew.

The same Halifax crew that had finished second in the Empire race also rowed an international event, defeating the Leander Rowing Club, Philadelphia, crew, and won in a thrilling finish.

Before the races at Burlington here, two international events were run off in the rough water at the east end of the bay. They were the senior 145-pound eights and the senior 158-pound eights.

Leanders, of Hamilton, won the first event. Westsides, of Buffalo was second and Lachine Montreal, third.

Westsides, however, redeemed themselves in the best of the two races by slipping down in front of their opponents in the last quarter to win by a length.

MINIMUM WAGE LAWS OBSERVED BY INDUSTRIES

Average Weekly Earnings of Women in B.C. Occupations Shows Gain

SWEATING IS ABSENT YEAR'S REVIEW SHOWS

Administration of the Minimum Wage Act as applied to female workers in British Columbia industries is reviewed in the annual report presented to the Government this week by the board enforcing the statute. Employers generally are obeying the provisions of the act, it is shown, and in the few cases where action by the board was necessary corrective measures were put into effect at once.

Operation of the statute recovered the sum of $2,836 in legal wages for female employees who had been underpaid, the report continues. Prosecutions were avoided wherever possible and results obtained by personal intervention with the employers concerned.

In most cases the provisions of the act are being strictly complied with and a general raising of the standard of wages and improvements in working conditions for female workers have been noted.

Offenders against the terms of the act have for the most part been foreigners, who could see no way to reduce operating expenses except through a cut in the wages of those employed, the report continues. Prompt action by the board was found to meet the case in such instances and the difficulties were adjusted with a minimum of trouble.

Women to the number of 20,766 are employed in occupations and industries reporting to the board. Of these 15,789 are single, 4,176 married and 801 widowed. Over five thousand women are engaged in office work in the province, where single women outnumber those married by nine to one. The fruit and vegetable trade gives employment to 906 women; 2,023 are employed in telephone and telegraph services, and 3,339 in office work in mercantile concerns.

The occupation of women in some phases of industry is highly seasonal, weekly payrolls of approximately $350,000 at the peak season of the year falling off to a fraction of that sum at the lowest level.

Of the 20,766 women and girls employed by firms reporting to the board, 18.02 per cent were receiving the minimum of their respective classes of work. On the other hand 61.87 per cent received wages well in advance of the minimum. Remaining to be accounted for are those on part-time work and inexperienced workers on lower scales of wages, who complete the numbers employed.

The avegare wage paid is well in advance of the scale set by the board, and for skilled workers in nine occupations was $17.64 per week in 1929, compared with $17.52 in the year previous. Hours of work, where they show a change, are tending to shorter working weeks in most occupations covered by the report.

had been given work on roads and public buildings. There was still much room for further road-building, but there was a limit to the funds which could be provided by the Provincial Government. He expected there would be about 15,000 unemployed in the province during the Winter.

LUMBER MARKETS

The important things in dealing with unemployment in British Columbia, Dr. Tolmie said, was the extension of export markets. Australia imported large quantities of lumber, but only 8 per cent of it came from British Columbia. The United States was bonusing its steamship lines heavily for the purpose of carrying mail. But he suspected it was really for the purpose of carrying lumber. He thought an investigation of the shipping situation on the Pacific should be made, and if no other way of keeping the ships running could be found, bonuses should be granted.

Another factor in the British Columbia situation was the dumping of agricultural products from the United States. Premier Tolmie thought the dumping clause should be applied to fruits at certain seasons of the year. He also urged a careful survey of the $900,000,000 worth of imports coming to Canada each year to see what could be produced profitably in Canada. A peculiar factor in British Columbia's employment situation was the number of drifters who came in during the Winter. These men, who did not belong to the province, should not be allowed to continue as a burden.

GIVES WORLD OUTLOOK

Returned from attending the International Labor Congress at Geneva, a convention of the organised labor of the world at Stockholm, and a meeting of the organised labor of the British Empire at London, Mr. Foster said he found it hard to view unemployment in a strictly national sense. Nothing was more clear than it was a world-wide problem, and the advocates of high tariff and the proponents of free trade were equally confronted with the serious unemployment in Great Britain and the equally disastrous condition in the United States.

It seemed to him, he said, that the right people were not members of the council. Industry was controlled by finance, and the men who controlled finance should be present at the meeting to get the facts. It was idle to talk overproduction when there were millions of people who could not get the things produced. While Canada's granaries were bulging with wheat there were millions of people in Europe unable to buy bread. Any consideration of a permanent solution of unemployment would have to take these factors into mind.

GIVES ALBERTA VIEW

From Alberta the spokesman was W. Smitten, Commissioner of Labor, who complained of the influx of immigrants from Central Europe. For the past two years, he said, 66 per cent of the people who received relief and who were without established homes in the province came from Central Europe, and 80 per cent had been in Canada less than five years. Unemployment in Alberta was serious. When he left Edmonton, the unemployment registration was higher than at the peak last Winter.

Some conflict of view developed over the situation in Quebec. Louis Guyon, Deputy Minister of Labor, said most of the people out of work were foreign immigrants and could be easily placed, as they were willing to take lower grades of labor.

OPINIONS DIFFER

"I may be optimistic about Quebec," said Mr. Guyon, "but taking everything into consideration the province is in a very fair condition. We do not think there will be an enormous number out of work this Winter. In Montreal the people on the streets are not really needy and are not difficult to place."

Mr. Guyon spoke of urban conditions and J. Boulanger, deputy minister of highways, said there was practically no unemployment in the rural districts owing to the road-work being carried on by the Provincial Government. The Government had 26,000 men at work and its daily payroll was about $75,000. It intended to continue road operations until the Winter lumber camps started.

J. T. Foster, of Montreal, had a different idea. He said the Heurling Refuge in Montreal was assisting twice as many people this year as last, nearly all of whom were natives of Quebec. He added he had been requested to give this information by the mayor of Montreal. Miss Charlotte Whitton, of the Council for Child Welfare, agreed with this statement and said the Montreal social agencies all reported bad conditions.

SPEAKS FOR SASKATCHEWAN

If the Federal Government could find some way of selling grain at a good price it would do a lot for unemployment in Saskatchewan, said Hon. A. C. Stewart, Minister of Highways for that province. The province was suffering this year as last from a large dried-out area. One-sixth of the farmer population had no crop last year or this year. The Government had assisted through highway building and now had 10,000 men at work. He suggested the Dominion Government might aid by improving the national park at Prince Albert.

J. H. Evans, deputy minister of agriculture of Manitoba, said unemployment in that province was due to no single factor, but to a variety of interlocking causes. The province was in a better condition than Saskatchewan because it had a good crop. Much depended on whether it could be sold.

S. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works in New Brunswick, said the Provincial Government was carrying on an extensive road building programme. He suggested the Federal Government might assist by improving a number of wharves which were in a bad condition.

WANTS PRONOUNCEMENT

A pronouncement on the tariff question from the Employment Service Council of Canada was urged by A. H. H. Ballantyne, deputy minister of labor. Ontario, he said, had a large manufacturing industry, but anything which might be done to aid the manufacturing industry would benefit all provinces of Canada.

"Rightly or wrongly," he said, "the manufacturers of Ontario believe more protection should be granted to enable them to sell more goods in the Canadian market and so absorb more labor."

President of the council, J. Clark Reilly advocated the widening of employment by the initiation of large public and industrial works which otherwise would be left over until a later date. That is what President Hoover advocated nine months ago in Washington when he called together industrial leaders of the United States, inviting them to undertake, in the slack time, improvements and replacements in railways, public works and the private industrial field on a scale which would look after the needs of the future rather than of the moment.

MANY DELEGATES PRESENT

The meeting, which was called together by Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, opened with a statement by the minister summarizing the unemployment situation in Canada. Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia, attended as representative of the Pacific Coast province. Other provincial governments were represented by the deputy ministers of labor. The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the Canadian railway brotherhoods, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Canadian Council of Agriculture, returned soldier organizations and other bodies representative of employers and employed in Canada sent delegates. It is anticipated that the meeting will last at least two days.

The fire, after considerable destruction of mill property and settlement houses nearby, is being held at the line it reached on the first day of the outbreak, on Tuesday last, and is well under control, fire rangers stated last evening, after a survey of the reports received during the day.

The fire front is now at Deer Creek, about one mile from Kapoor. Well over 1,000 acres have been burned.

Shelter for the 150 employees and their families, rendered homeless, is being provided in box cars moved as close to the settlement as possible.

NEW ZEALAND TO WITHDRAW PREFERENCE

Premier Announces Change in Tariff on Canadian Motor Cars

OTTAWA IS NOT YET OFFICIALLY NOTIFIED

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Official inquiries are being made respecting the decision of New Zealand to place Canadian motor vehicles and accessories on the general tariff list. This information was gleaned here tonight from official sources, which up to a late hour had received no official communication that Canadian motor vehicles and accessories were to be deprived by New Zealand of the preference new accorded. Little probability exists of any development in the matter from this end for the next few days at least.

VALUE OF TRADE

For the fiscal year ending March 31, last, Canada exported to New Zealand 10,349 motor cars valued at $5,506,791, and parts valued at $441,558. In 1929, the value of automobiles exported to that country was $4,787,504 and that of parts was $366,473.

Only recently, the New Zealand tariff against Canadian cars was changed. Before July 2, the tariff against Canadian cars of "body duty" was 20 per cent for the first $1,000 and 15 per cent on the value over that amount.

TARIFF OF JULY 2

Under the new tariff the rates were 21 1-4 per cent up to $1,000 and 16 1-4 per cent on the remainder, if any. The general rate on foreign cars was increased from 50 per cent to 56 1-4 per cent up to $1,000 and from 42 1-2 to 48 3-4 per cent on the remainder of the value over $1,000. There is, in addition to this, a surtax of 22 1-2 per cent of the duty in the case of all imported goods.

MR. BENNETT'S COMMENT

MEDICINE HAT, Alta, Aug. 21.—"Rt. Hon. G. W. Forbes, Prime Minister of New Zealand, informed Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King some time ago that he would take precisely this action," stated Prime Minister R. B. Bennett when shown a dispatch stating that New Zealand had decided to place Canadian motor vehicles and accessories on the general tariff list.

Beyond referring to Mr. Forbes' notification to Mr. King, the Prime Minister had no further comment to make.

Mr. Bennett, accompanied by his sister, Miss Mildred, is en route to Calgary. During a brief stop here, the Prime Minister was met by prominent members of the local Conservative association.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Aug. 21.—The Government of the Dominion of New Zealand has decided to place Canadian motor vehicles and accessories on the general tariff list, thus depriving them of the preference now accorded, announced Rt. Hon. G. W. Forbes, Prime Minister, in the House of Representatives today.

The Prime Minister gave a lengthy review of the position of trade between Canada and New Zealand, and told of the Government's negotiations to conclude a direct trade treaty with Canada. Mr. Forbes added that the new Canadian administration had informed the New Zealand Government that it could not extend the Australian trade treaty rates to New Zealand products beyond the month of October, but that Canada was willing to negotiate a direct trade agreement.

WITH A PROVISO

The New Zealand Government, said Mr. Forbes, was willing, pending the completion of a direct agreement, to place Canadian motor cars on the British preferential tariff once more, providing Canada would reciprocate in a substantial manner.

In an interview later today the Premier pointed out that of the twenty-seven makes of American cars on the New Zealand market only five are paying the rate of duty charged on American cars, the remainder being admitted under the preference as they were assembled in Canada.

BRITISH COMPLAINT

Mr. Forbes yesterday received a delegation representing British motor manufacturers. His visitors claimed the preference given to cars assembled in Canada was working out unfairly against Britain. The deputation showed almost as many Canadian as American cars were imported last year, $6,480,000 having been spent on American and $6,240,000 on Canadian cars. The Prime Minister assured the deputation of his sympathy than and today's announcement was the sequel.

has been thoroughly gone over by mechanics.

MADE NON-STOP FLIGHT

Recently Captain Boyd, in company with Roger Q. Williams, made a non-stop flight from New York to Bermuda.

The career of the flyer has been one of continuous adventure. He was born in Toronto thirty-eight years ago, and on the outbreak of the World War he was a Lieutenant in the Queen's Own Rifles. During 1914, however, he transferred to the Royal Naval Air Service, and was soon at the front. In October, 1915, he was shot down by anti-aircraft guns when returning from a bombing raid on the submarine base at Zeebrugge. He landed in Holland and was interned there until released on parole.

AIRMAIL PILOT

On returning to this continent he married in New York Miss Evelyn Cavery, a native of Toronto and a member of Zeigfeld's Follies. He was for some time an airmail pilot in Canada, during which he covered the Montreal to Rimouski route.

Thereafter he went in for barnstorming in various parts of Canada and the United States. Later he operated an airmail in Mexico, finally landing back in Canada.

IS CONSERVATIVE FIGURE

Senator Robertson said he considered the figures received were a conservative estimate. It was not unreasonable to say, he added, that there were now 200,000 people out of work in Canada. Figures compiled on August 15, he stated, showed that out of 206,597 union men in Canada 26,796, or 10.9 per cent, were out of work.

The Government of Canada does not propose to adopt paternalism as a policy in dealing with unemployment, but it does propose to help the people to help themselves, Senator Robertson declared.

"I do not for one moment suggest," he said, "that the present unemployment is due to any Government or lack of governmental activity. But it is not the business of the Government of Canada to look after the world as a whole. It seems to me the problem first to be faced is for the Government to look after the people of Canada and assist them to look after themselves.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION

"A proposal has just been made to me that if the Federal grant to technical education were restored it would be a great boon to the unemployed. I do not know what the Government will do, because the matter has not been considered. But I do know it would at least enable the unemployed man to improve his skill during the time he is out of work.

"I feel, however, that if the technical education plan, as inaugurated some years ago, had been carried out to the full, there would not be so much unemployment today."

To the causes of unemployment the minister referred development of labor-saving machinery, particularly in the West. Then there was the question of immigration. Feeling that it was its duty to see that the people of Canada had employment before inviting others to come in, the Government had taken steps to restrict immigration.

PLANS FOR SESSION

A special session of Parliament was being called to deal with the situation. The Government proposed to pass legislation enabling it to invite the co-operation of the provincial and municipal authorities and the co-operation of employers of labor with a view to providing all the employment possible as quickly as it could be done.

The meeting opened today is the regular annual meeting of the Employment Service Council, called at this time by the Minister of Labor to consider the employment situation. Clark Reilly, of Ottawa, the president, was in the chair. The members of the council represent the Provincial Governments, Federal Government, labor organizations, social service organizations, associations of employers and of employees. Following the remarks of Senator Robertson, representatives of different provinces spoke of conditions under their jurisdiction.

When the boat reached Lantivet Bay last night it encountered the storm and piled up on the numerous rocks of the bay. Great waves punished the craft as it perched on the jagged boulders, and it soon went to pieces.

RESCUE EFFORTS FUTILE

Since Fowey is a coastguard station, members of the guard tried to rescue the marooned party. Some fired lifelines across the doomed craft, while others went down the 365-foot cliff overhanging the scene of the disaster and attempted to get to the boat. Both efforts were futile because of the tremendous seas and the rocking of their ladder.

AUXILIARY CUTTER

TWO SAD-HEARTED

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—Harvesters from Manitoba's wheatlands are sad-hearted tonight after the wreck of the yacht Islander on the rocky Cornwall shore. One is the nineteen-year-old son of Commodore Henry Douglas King, prominent member of the British Parliament, who died with five others. The other is Commodore King's son-in-law.

Tired after a few days' harvest work at Miniota, Man., J. M. Taylor, son-in-law of the drowned commodore, explained tonight that young Robert H. S. King was hurrying to Winnipeg from the harvest fields at Isabella, in Western Manitoba. The son of the commodore will collect cables sent from his mother and will discuss plans to return home.

Lloyd's Register of Yachts lists the Islander as an auxiliary cutter of 7.24 tons registry and 48-foot length. It was constructed in 1911 by R. Kitto & Son. It had a paraffin motor and was owned by Lieut.-Col. John N. Diggle.

Fowey, near which the yacht Islander went to pieces, is a seaport at the mouth of the river of that name, about twenty-two miles from Plymouth and twenty-five miles from Launceston.

Lieut.-Col. John Neston Diggle is one of England's prominent huntsmen and yachting enthusiasts. He is forty-six years old. His home is at Wentworth, Rotherham.

ernment early this week by the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool suggesting that some steps be taken to provide for the marketing of the entire 1930 wheat crop of the province through the wheat pool or some single channel. Premier Bracken admitted tonight that he had been invited to attend the session.

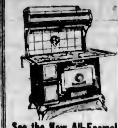

CANNOT ATTEND

"I understand there is to be a meeting in Regina tomorrow," stated Premier Bracken when queried on the reported gathering. "I had an invitation from Premier Anderson to attend a meeting to discuss a proposal of one of the Saskatchewan farm organizations for a 100 per cent pool or wheat board in each of the Prairie Provinces. I should have liked to have sat in at these discussions but pressure of other matters has made it impossible to be present."

It has been stated that the course was taken by the Saskatchewan pool because the lending banks would not advance on the 1930 grain crop the amount required by the co-operative body. From responsible sources it is learned that this conclusion is not correct, in so far as the banks have not yet given the pool their final answer.

Delay of the wheat pool in announcing its initial payment for 1930 is now laid at the door of the banks for failure to make their final stand known. This is expected to be disclosed to the pool before the end of the week, and announcement of the initial payment on grain will be made immediately. At present seventy cents per bushel is being advanced on grain delivered since July 15, the cut-off date. This, however, is not the initial payment, but an advance pending the final decision.

SALMON PACK IN PROVINCE BELOW YEARLY AVERAGE

FRASER RIVER CATCH WAS MORE PROMISING

The salmon pack of the province in 1929 totaled 1,399,770 cases, it is shown in the annual report of Hon. S. L. Howe, Commissioner of Fisheries. It was 396,414 cases less than the average of the four preceding years. The Fraser River produced a total pack of 426,473 cases, the largest since 1913. The pack of sockeye was 26,184 cases greater than in 1925—the brood year of this year's run. The pack, however, was not, as has been stated, the largest made on the Fraser in recent years. It was exceeded by the pack in 1926 by 24,120 cases, and it only exceeded the pack of 1927 by 179 cases.

The catch of sockeye made in the State of Washington waters of the Fraser River system in 1929 produced a pack of 111,898 cases, substantially the same as in the brood-year, 1925.

The combined catch of sockeye in the entire Fraser River system produced a pack of 173,467 cases. It was 26,059 cases greater than in the brood-year, 1925, and the largest made in the whole system since 1913. In this connection it should be noted that 1929 came within this four-year cycle of the former big runs—the years in which the sockeye run made the Fraser famous.

It should also be noted that for the first year since 1917 there was a good run of sockeye to the system early in July and the catches in that month were much the largest made in any July since 1917, also that the fish were large, fat and in all other respects resembled the fish in the runs of big years. And, as is shown later in the report, the early escapement of sockeye in 1929 was also greater and, as in the big years, the fish that escaped ascended to the headwaters of the Fraser.

The July catch of sockeye in provincial waters of the system produced a pack of 32,282 cases, out of a seasonal pack of 61,569 cases. Of the 32,282 cases, 12,429 were packed by the middle of that month.

WAS DISAPPOINTING

The pack of sockeye in the Skeena River was especially disappointing. It was 50 per cent less than the department's estimate. It totaled but 79,017 cases.

The catch of sockeye at Rivers Inlet produced a pack of 70,260 cases. Notwithstanding that the catch was somewhat larger than in the preceding years, it did not come up to the department's forecast and again leaves considerable uncertainty as to conditions there. As in former years the department made investigations of the spawning beds of the principal salmon spawning areas.

FISH OIL PRODUCTION

The production of fish oil and meal in the province in 1929 shows a substantial reduction in oil and an increase in meal. The twenty-nine reduction plants produced 2,962,205 gallons of oil and 19,402 tons of meal, as against 4,059,901 gallons of oil and 15,290 tons of meal in 1928. The production from pilchards shows a decrease from that of 1928 of 1,364,288 gallons of oil and an increase in meal of 1,128 tons. The number of fish caught was larger than in 1928 but their oil content was much less. The fish were very thin. Most of them were taken in the open sea and very few were taken in estuary waters.

State Health Insurance Is Subject of Address Before Hospital Parley

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—Addressing the Western Hospitals Association here this evening C. H. Gibbons, secretary of the British Columbia commission on state health insurance and maternity benefits, gave an instructive review of investigation carried on into health insurance in many countries.

Mr. Gibbons gave it as his personal view that the adoption of state health insurance in Canada, eventually under Dominion control, would be of benefit to the country in the lowering of enormous losses now suffered through preventible ills and the sacrifice of health and working time. Any such plan, he stated, would have to be on a compulsory basis to be effective. Mr. Gibbons continued, in part:

"The ground of inquiry has been, I believe, fairly well covered," said Mr. Gibbons, "although anything I say must necessarily be sub judice, as it were, the material for the commission's final report not yet having been considered, it can at least be said without trenching upon the probable scope and tenor of that report, that throughout British Columbia and among all classes and interests of the provincial community there has been evinced an overwhelmingly preponderant opinion that a system of public insurance against losses by illness should be devised and applied without delay, in the interests not only of residents of limited means, but equally of economies in provincial and hospital services and as a step toward the reduction of the costs of medical care, of protecting the hospitals against evitable bad debt losses and for scientific reduction of the volume of preventable sickness and the building up of a healthier, happier and more progressive community.

"Careful study of the character and scope of the various schemes of health insurance obtaining in Great Britain and advanced foreign countries, and necessary evolutionary changes in such schemes produced in operative experience, lead inevitably to the conclusion that any plan of state health insurance to be effective must be compulsory. Voluntary insurance against sickness now is and long has been available in Canada through the enterprise of private insurance companies, fraternal societies and labor organizations.

"Our own national experience has demonstrated, as such experience has also in other lands, that the very classes and individuals who have most to fear and most to lose through interruption of their regular employment by sickness, those least competent to sustain sickness loss, are those who constitutionally take no thought of the morrow and are content to let their more provident and more prudent fellow-citizens not only provide against the possibility of sickness in their own homes, but to make up the deficits in doctors' and hospital bills created by the neglect of such improvident ones to take thought of the always possible rainy day.

MAY FAVOR PLAN

"The conclusion may safely be drawn that the British Columbia commission on state health insurance now functioning will, in reporting to the Legislature at its next session, recommend, as in the general public interest, the enactment of a compulsory system of public health insurance devised to meet as best may be done the special and peculiar conditions of this province of vast distances and scattered population centres, of struggling farming and fruit-growing interests, and of industry-founding pioneers of the hinterlands—the British Columbia state health insurance problem in these respects being distinct and original, neither to be copied nor adapted on precedents in the legislation and practice of older and long-settled countries.

"It is to be noted also, on the evidence of the commission's research work thus far accomplished, that provincial opinion as to state health insurance has materially changed during the past few years, with more general study and fuller understanding of the subject. Whereas ten, or even five years ago, the common if unconsidered opinion of industrial and general business interests was that state health insurance would be merely another example of paternalistic legislation for the special advantage of certain classes of workers, further adding to the operating charges of the already overtaxed industries, the majority conclusion of such business interests now is that whatever fair proportion of necessary premium charges employers may be called upon to shoulder will be offset by benefits to the industries as well as to workers therein.

"Municipal corporations of British Columbia are found to be 100 per cent in favor of state insurance against sickness losses, and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association members in this province, hitherto inexorably opposed to state health insurance proposals, have now, by ten-to-one, endorsed the initiation of a practical scheme in such connection. The earlier disposition was to accept it as axiomatic that if employers were to contribute to the costs of health insurance protection for their workers, overhead expenses inevitably would be increased. In this attitude the facts would seem to have been overlooked or ignored.

"A wider spread of insurance by its general application on actuarial principles should reduce the averaged cost to below that now possible under existing voluntary employees' benefit association schemes.

FACTORS CONSIDERED

Administration costs of such services would be eliminated. Equities now missing in the operations of competing interests would be assured, to the marked advantage of employer bodies actively interested in the welfare of their workers.

"Also employers would gain by decreased interruption of the sustained capacity effort of their working forces, through betterment of health standards, anticipating and preventing the development of illness, enhanced general efficiency born of relief from workers' worry and extension of the span of activity for experienced employees.

Reduction of abnormal charges now carried by the Province and by municipalities in connection with health protection and care of the sick, aid for hospitals, and physicians' subsidies, through a considerable proportion of such charges being assumed by established insurance funds, would in turn be reflected in reduced taxation in such behalf now indirectly borne by industrials.

"Finally a major portion of the sickness costs burden now placed upon the Province and municipalities through nonpayment of hospital charges would be extinguished with such charges being made 100 per cent collectable by the health insurance machinery," continued Mr. Gibbons.

"Early in the present commission's investigations, when analysis was undertaken of every piece of state health insurance legislation and every concrete proposal in that connection the world over, one circumstance intruded that makes the provincial position at once unique and more difficult than ordinarily. All precedents as to state health insurance legislation are in a measure inapplicable inasmuch as such operative legislation is universally national, not state or provincial.

IN GREAT BRITAIN

"Great Britain has its national insurance system, which has so functioned, despite some natural defects, as to lead the chief medical officer of the British Ministry to testify that 'the value of health insurance practice is beyond all question.'

"The Irish Free State has a like system. The Union of South Africa is taking steps in the same direction. Australia is moving similarly, the states of the Commonwealth rejecting as impossible of consideration the suggestion that such protection for citizens of limited means should be other than national. In Canada the consensus of available opinion is identical, that there should be public health insurance and that such insurance should be a Dominion obligation and a Dominion responsibility," concluded Mr. Gibbons.

LIBERAL ELECTED IN RECOUNT OF BALLOTS IN ALBERTA RIDING

EDMONTON, Aug. 21.—Beaver River riding in the Provincial House switched from the U.F.A. column to the Liberal column today, when Judge Taylor completed the recount of ballots and declared Capt. H. H. Dakin elected by four votes over his U.F.A. opponent, Amos Delisle, sitting member.

Beaver River has been consistently in the U.F.A. column since the provincial election in June, Delisle having first been declared elected by seven votes.

The revised and final standing gives the Government thirty-nine seats and Liberals eleven. The combined opposition totals twenty-four.

End Piles Quick

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. Cutting and external remedies can't do this—an internal medicine must be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, succeeds, because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere, and has such a wonderful record of success right in this city that MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores say to every Pile sufferer, try HEM-ROID at my risk. It must end all Pile agony or you get your money back (Advt.)

LIFE HISTORY OF THE SALMON IS OUTLINED

Accurate Forecast Was Made of Sockeye Salmon Movements

MUCH IS LEARNED OF B.C. RIVER SPAWNING

Further study of the life-history of the sockeye salmon in British Columbia waters is outlined in a paper prepared by Drs. Clemens, of the Biological Station, Nanaimo, included in the annual report of Hon. S. L. Howe, Commissioner of Fisheries.

Results of the investigation into the movements of herring and pilchards is also contained in the report. These detailed continuous records give the constituents of the age-classes, sex, weights and lengths of the sockeye in each of the runs to the principal salmon producing waters of the province for the last sixteen years. They constitute one of the most detailed continuous records of any fishery.

In the present paper, as in recent years, Drs. Clemens attempted forecasts of the 1930 run of sockeye to principal British Columbia rivers. In dealing with the sockeye run to the Fraser system in 1930 they stated that "the run will be derived largely from the spawning in 1926. In that year there was an increase in the pack over that of 1922, largely because of the appearance of a large run late in the season, and there was a large escapement to Adams River.

Drs. Clemens stated that the run of sockeye to the Skeena in 1930 would be derived from the seedings of 1925 and 1926. In 1925 the pack totaled 81,140 cases and the sampling in that year showed that the five-year-old fish constituted 47 per cent of the run. In 1926 the pack was 82,380 cases and the four-year-old fish formed 70 per cent of the run. In both years the spawning beds of both the Lakelse and the Babine Lakes areas were reported very well seeded. Sockeye canners have subsequently reported the accuracy of these forecasts from all indications.

OTHER FISH STUDIED

During the year, the report states, the Provincial and Dominion Governments began a joint investigation of the movements of pilchards and the herring and the condition of these fisheries. It is being directed by Dr. W. A. Clemens, of the Biological Board, and Mr. Babcock, of the province. Statistics of the catch of pilchards since 1917 have been tabulated.

Extensive microscopic examination confirms that the age of pilchards cannot, as in the case of salmon, herring and some other fishes, be determined by their scale growth. Tests were made to determine length distribution in the catches, by which it is hoped that it may be determined whether there has been any marked decrease in the older fish in any fluctuations that may occur in future years.

The number of fish sampled was large and most of the fish were large in size. Close to 60 per cent of the fish were females. The report points out that no definite conclusions can be drawn by a comparison only of the early records of any fishery—that only by continued study can the trend of a fishery be shown. The investigation in hand is directed to that end.

In dealing with the herring investigation the report states that though fishing for herring in provincial waters has been slow, it is shown to have been stabilized in 1917. In that year the catch totaled 40,037,000 pounds. In 1920 it advanced to 100,135,000 pounds and remained close to that figure up to 1923. In the years 1925 to 1929 it averaged 154,462,000 pounds. The gain in the last few years may be due largely to an increased use of gear, and not due to increased abundance.

The present investigation has been undertaken in the hope of gaining such an understanding as will enable the Government to adopt a system of exploitation as will insure its maintenance.

Copies of the report may be had upon application to the Provincial Fisheries Department.

TOURING BRITISHERS TAKEN OVER MALAHAT

Tour De Luxe Party Spend Day Visiting Points of Interest—Leaving Tonight

Members of the Canadian Pacific Railway's tour de luxe party, fifty in number, who are on a visit to Victoria from the British Isles, spent yesterday on a tour of points of interest on the Island. In the morning they were taken over the Malahat and to Butchart's Gardens, and then to Brenta Lodge for lunch. The afternoon was spent in fishing and out-of-door pleasures and sport, the party returning to the Empress Hotel in time for dinner.

No set programme has been arranged for today and the visitors will be left to make their own entertainment. A number have signified their intention of resuming fishing. Others are planning to visit the various parks and other points of interest in the city. The party is scheduled to leave by the midnight boat for Vancouver to commence the homeward journey. From Vancouver the party will go to Field, B.C., and will motor from there to Lake Louise, where three days will be spent. From Lake Louise the travelers will go direct to Edmonton and Winnipeg, and from there to the Canadian Pacific bungalow camp on the banks of the Nipigon River, famous for its speckled trout fishing. The only other stops between Nipigon and Montreal will be at Sudbury and the French River camp. The party is leaving Montreal by the Duchess of Atholl on September 4 for home.

BETTER CONDITIONS FOR RURAL CARRIERS IN DOMINION ASKED

DETROIT, Aug. 21.—Hope for better conditions for rural mail carriers in Canada under the present Government was expressed in an address by Garfield Mackinnon, of Guelph, Ont., secretary of the Canadian Rural Letter Carriers' Association, before the United States National Association here.

Mackinnon was received with an ovation when introduced as the Canadian representative. He described conditions in his own country. Rural carriers in Canada, he said, received an average income of $800. They travel an average of twenty miles daily and must tender every four years, while United States carriers average $1,800 each year for an average twenty-four miles daily on salary basis.

The former Government, he said, had turned a deaf ear to claims of rural carriers, but he believed the present Government at the next session of Parliament will grant carriers a living wage.

Herr Magersuppe, a young German, recently made at Folkestone, England, a glider flight lasting three hours and fifteen minutes, breaking the British record for a flight over a radius of ten miles, and landed in a spot 120 yards long and 100 yards wide, surrounded by houses.

THE EMPRESS OF JAPAN

Today will witness the arrival here of another token of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's faith in the future of the Dominion's place in trade on the Pacific Ocean. The new 26,000-ton liner, the Empress of Japan, is due on her maiden voyage from the Far East. She is the finest and most sumptuously equipped vessel ever to ply the Pacific and the fastest passenger steamer. The Canadian Pacific Railway is keeping well abreast of the times in meeting the needs for speedier travel on all the seaways where its vessels sail.

The time between the ports of Victoria and Vancouver and Japan has been cut down by two days through the advent of the new Empress. The Orient can now be reached in just a shade over a week, whereas it is not so many years ago when the time occupied was twelve days. This curtailment in time is a factor of significance in the development of inter-Empire communications. With the provision by the C.P.R. of a faster service across the Atlantic, as will be the case when the Empress of Britain is in commission, the Orient, for both mails and passengers, will have been brought within nineteen days of Great Britain, via the Canadian route.

The coming of the Empress of Japan is yet another evidence of the progressive policies of the C.P.R. The motto of that company is that where it establishes trade routes what it gains it will hold, and it does so by a policy of expansion designed to keep abreast and even ahead of growing needs. The company has proved itself one of the outstanding factors in the development of Empire trade on the Pacific Ocean. More and more, with each successive decade, it is making Canada a main highway from Great Britain to the Far East. The trade developing by this route will be given an impetus by the coming of the new Empress of Japan. Victoria is one of the links in this chain of transportation. This port must benefit proportionately with the provision of new facilities such as the vessel which arrives here this morning.

WATERFRONT POSSIBILITIES

No plan of any character has, as yet, been mapped out for the improvement of Victoria's waterfront property for recreational purposes. It is a subject which is brought to the fore from time to time, but always the question of expense develops, or else objections are raised to an elaborate scheme for the development of any one particular portion of civic property. What is forgotten is that in the majority of seaside towns the waterfront is the greatest asset they possess. It could be made this in Victoria because here, along a stretch of that waterfront nearest of access to the centre of the city, the property is owned by the municipality. It only awaits development and to this it lends itself in a unique fashion.

The view from what is known as the Marine Drive is of a character which, elsewhere, would be regarded as an asset of remarkable importance. It has impressed visitors who have traveled all over the world. It was that view, more than any other scenic feature, which led Mr. Rudyard Kipling to pay an unusual tribute to Victoria. That tribute is used for publicity purposes, but it is a strange thing that the stretch of waterfront which led to the tribute is left in its unkempt character year after year to the amazement of thousands of tourists who visit us annually. This is the case because there appears to be a lack of practical appreciation of what our waterfront property could be made to mean in civic development.

Victoria will always be visited by tourists. Its fame as a scenic centre is well established. The majority of tourists, however, do not travel for the enjoyment they get from scenery alone, and it is just a question if we have not already reached the high mark of the tourist traffic we can hope to attract here unless new facilities and new attractions are provided for their entertainment. The travelling public are looking all the time for recreation amid new settings. They want something different to what they can obtain at home. In short, they want to be amused. It is significant that a great deal of the patronage given to the miniature golf links recently established in the city has come from visitors. That is an indication that, while holidaying, they are on the look-out for games and amusements.

There is no bigger scheme of civic development upon which Victoria could engage, from the standpoint of adding to its tourist traffic and providing recreational facilities for its own citizens, than in carrying out a plan of improvements along the Dallas Road and Marine Drive foreshore. Whatever might be the expenditure involved, if it is well spent, it will repay the outlay a thousandfold in the course of years. For a city that has advanced to the point of progress reached by Victoria the area in question is a disgrace, and yet, despite this, it is one of the most frequented of places because of its open spaces and the magnificent view that is obtainable. Even adjoining that portion of the retaining wall between Menzies Street and the Ogden Point breakwater there is no sidewalk; the grass is allowed to grow there in abandon and the pools of water and mud puddles to stand in the Winter time.

It requires no stretch of the imagination to know what might be done to make the portion of the waterfront alluded to the most popular playground for the people in Victoria. Just as other seaside cities have concentrated so much effort in development on their waterfronts Victoria can do the same, and here there are greater assets and scenery of a more majestic character than may be found almost anywhere else in such relationship. The City Council which performs this task will live long in the memory of the people and be the means of doing more to increase the present tourist traffic than any of its predecessors in office. Such possibilities exist that it is conceivable that everyone who benefits from the tourist trade would be anxious to help in any well thought out plan of development.

CANADA'S NEW DESTROYERS

The two new destroyers for the Canadian Navy being completed at the Woolston Yard of Messrs. John I. Thornycroft and Company, are due for delivery to this country next Spring. There is a local interest in these vessels, for one of them, the Skeena, will have its base at Esquimalt. The new destroyers have a length of 309 feet between perpendiculars, an overall length of 321 feet, a breadth of 33 feet 6 inches, a displacement of 1,320 tons, and their designed speed is 35 knots. In general design they are similar to the modified "A" type, or what is known as the Acasta class. That class now includes Acasta, Achates, Acheron, Active, Antelope, Anthony, Ardent and Arrow, all of which were laid down in 1928.

The only difference between the Canadian destroyers and those of the same class in the British Navy is certain modifications in the design whereby the former are more suitable for severe climatic conditions. There are heavier scantlings so as to give greater stability to allow for the accumulation of ice on the upper decks, bridges, rigging, etc. They are equipped with a more elaborate heating system, and there is more recreation space for the crew. The chief feature of interest is that they are the most up-to-date vessels yet provided for the Canadian Navy, in fact the first ever to be built specifically for use in this country. Their provision marks a departure in policy, and it will be significant if these destroyers should form the nucleus of a Canadian Navy of the future. This would mean that this country would begin to take its place, in a naval sense, on the same plane which Australia now occupies in its provision towards Imperial defence.

As compared with man-made devices earthquakes are only comparatively minor manifestations in the destruction of human life. In a period of 4,000 years earthquakes caused the loss of 13,000,000 lives. The motor car in the United States is destroying human life at a rate six times as fast.

In the recent general election the most petulant of the newspapers in Canada was The Toronto Globe. It outshone itself in partisanship. It developed arguments "full of pale fancies and chimeras huge." Its course has recalled the conversation between an old Conservative and an old Liberal when the ancient Grit said: "I read nothing but the Bible and The Globe." To this the Conservative retorted grimly: "Well, you get both sides, don't you?"

The Director of Statistics at Calcutta in his final estimate sets the production of wheat in India for the season 1929-1930 at 386,512,000 bushels from 31,347,00 acres. This compares with 317,595,000 bushels from 33,011,000 acres for 1928-1929. The yield now reported is 17.7 per cent greater than the five-year average, although the acreage in question is slightly lower than the five-year average.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Hey, hey, come to the fair!
Ho, ho, so to the fair!

We have gone to the fair once, and we shall go again, for while it may not be "the greatest show on earth," like P. T. Barnum's big circus, it is the biggest and best fair ever held in Victoria—and there is no humbug about that statement. There always were some humbugging features about P.T.B.'s big circus, for the great showman said the people delighted to be humbugged, and that when they were humbugged one year, they always went to his show to be humbugged another year, and the oftener they were humbugged the better they liked to humbugged again.

But it would never do to apply the principles upon which Barnum conducted his circus to the conduct of an agricultural and industrial exhibition. You may fool the people who go to circuses all the time, because people who go to circuses go there with the expectation of being fooled, but you cannot fool the people who go to fairs one year without paying the penalty next year. So we went to the fair, and found out that nothing which has been said about it is "newspaper ballyhoo." The grounds have been enlarged and improved almost beyond identification. The stand in which the people who follow the "ponies" and back their fancies, winning or losing as the case may be, but, as we suspect, losing more often than winning, is new and is so situated as to give a much better view of the longer and wider track. The exhibits are more numerous than they ever were before and of a much better quality.

That is one of the fascinations of going to a fair—noting the improvement in the qualities of the things upon exhibition and the progress in the arts of agriculturist, the horticulturist, the mechanic, in the science of the inventor, and the progress in the general affairs of the world. Like the great majority of the people who go to fairs, however, we did not go there to increase knowledge nor to criticise. We went to be amused.

So after paying a visit to the cattle sheds, and finding out that our old friend Mike was not looking the Ayrshires over and delivering a discourse upon the subject of horns and telling his hearers that the difference between a good Ayrshire and an inferior beast of that breed could easily and infallibly be determined by the size and the formation of the horns (for that was the way they did it in Ireland in the good old days of the big landlords), we gave up the hopeless pursuit of knowledge and went in search of amusement—and found what we sought on the Midway, if that is what they call the place where more ballyhoo may be heard than may be read in the newspapers when there is a big prize fight in prospect for the championship of the universe.

The people who patronise the bizarre attractions on the Midway appear to enjoy themselves hugely, although they must realise that in the various harmless games of chance they are deluded into playing they have about as much hope of winning anything worth while carrying away as we would have if we inscribed our name on the list of the players who will compete for the amateur golf championship of British Columbia. The psychological explanation for the state of mind of the patrons of the booths upon the Midway is that when we go to a fair we throw off the weight of years and become children for a day, and that is the secret of enjoying every moment spent at a fair. If staid and dignified men and women were not children for a day, would they mount those fiery steeds fastened by iron bars to a wheel and whirl around in a circle at a dizzy pace? After all, when it comes to the fine point, we are all like Helen's Babies, who were never happy except when they saw the wheels going round.

For us the most enjoyable feature of the fair was watching the children enjoying themselves—children in years and children in spirit (for the moment) whirling around in the air on mechanical ponies and chariots and going away up in the air in chairs. But the most interesting study of all was the peculiar people who are in charge of the affairs of the Midway, who look like gipsies and must lead the nomadic life of that people who are just as much a race apart as the Jews. We wonder whether those peculiar people follow the sun and carry on their business in perpetual Summer, or whether they have Winter quarters somewhere, fold up their tents and settle down with their families in stuffy houses. For they have wives and children. Prowling around on the outskirts of the grounds and behind the buildings we found that out. In fact, behind one of the buildings we made the acquaintances of three dark-skinned and sharp-featured youngsters playing and quarreling in a pile of sawdust. An equally dark-skinned and sharp-featured mother must have had an eye upon the children, for when they became too noisy the flap of a tent was thrust aside and swift justice fell upon the eldest. When the mother saw the children had a caller, she seized the baby, which was happily ensconced in a box into which it just fitted, and in a jiffy had it dressed in its company garments.

YOUTH

Toil and dust and heat
  And the city's voices;
Yet all toil is sweet
  When the heart rejoices.

Morn, with work ahead
  Till the frame is aching,
All for roof and bread;
  Still, a glad awakening!

Urge to know life's sweets,
  All is song and laughter,
Certain that sore defeats
  Must bring triumphs after.

Night and the stars that rise
  In promise shining,
To keep rare destinies
  For youth's divining.

Youth, and the stars that move
  Hearts to the mating;
Youth, and the lips of love
  That are somewhere waiting!

SAYS HUNTER BALLOT FAVORED IN REVIEWS

J. H. Riffey, M.D., mayor of Carlinville, Illinois, the county seat of Macoupin County, was a visitor in Victoria yesterday and paid his respects to Mayor Anscomb and City Clerk M. H. Hunter at the City Hall.

Mayor Riffey, who is on a few weeks' vacation prior to entering a campaign for the senatorship, mentioned to Mr. Hunter that he had read a review of the Hunter improved ballot which had appeared in one of the Chicago dailies. The review was strongly in favor of the adoption of the Hunter system for voting in municipal elections in the United States. Mayor Riffey was greatly impressed with the ballot which Mr. Hunter showed him yesterday and intimated he would be in favor of its adoption as the standard ballot in the United States. "It is much simpler than the old-fashioned system, and would be easily and readily adapted to states' elections," Mayor Riffey stated.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

AN APPRECIATION

Sir,—As one who has always taken a keen interest in the art section of the Willows Fair, I note with approval the tasteful selection arranged by this year's purveyors of the art exhibit.

Even a casual glance at the oils and water colors of the local section convinces one immediately of the passion for photographic sincerity and natural color that animates the breasts of our artists. They are obviously happy, nay, thrilled, to paint Nature as they think they see her. Thus, viewing the local exhibit, we are fascinated by such delightful and poetic subjects as L. A. Loveland's "Parliament Buildings," L. D. D. Unthoff's "October," T. S. Gore's "Victoria Sketches," etc., together with a slough of D. B. Cameron's landscapes executed with Corot-like leftness.

It is very gratifying, indeed, to note in the local artists a resolve not to be corrupted by the lamentable eccentricities foisted upon a helpless and innocent public by those alleged painters who protest they can achieve an art greater than photography by interpreting (i.e., distorting) nature's forms so as to stimulate a purer aesthetic emotion.

It is true there are included in the National Gallery loan from Ottawa several of the milder group of seven pictures, some examples of which were out of key with the exhibit as a whole. There was, for instance, J. E. H. Macdonald's "The Pool," which was marred by this artist's obsession for brilliant and cheerful color; and Lawren Harris' snow scene, in which the artist painted trees which I don't think quite looked like real trees.

However, the day was saved, so to speak, for the National Gallery by an academician's romantic "Moose Country," whose dull and drab browns were just what they should have been. This artist's power of observation was so keen that he did not neglect to perch the woodtick on one of the logs in the foreground! A masterful touch indeed!

In former years we have seen at the Fall Fair representative works of modernistic painters such as Miss Emily Carr, and F. H. Varley, the Vancouver member of the Group of Seven, who was this year (for some reason or other) awarded the Willingdon Prize.

This year these folk are absent from our exhibit.

In conclusion, I feel we owe a debt of gratitude to the gentlemen in charge for the discrimination they have shown in having arranged for the benefit of the local art-loving public a bigger and better art exhibit than we have had at any time before.

Evening Standard Tells of Good Work in Fostering British Ideals

LAUDS MR. HINCHLIFFE

We are too modest as a nation, and in a world of radios and loud-speakers our puerile public school habit of self-depreciation cuts no ice against the blatant boastfulness of the Americans.

This is the reasoned opinion of the Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education in the Government of British Columbia, and stout defender of British traditions, says The Evening Standard, published in London, under "The Londoner's Diary" columns. The Standard continues:

Mr. Hinchliffe, who reminds me of Mr. Snowden, who has been revisiting his old home in Yorkshire, is seriously perturbed by the infiltration of American ideals (pumped in by Yankee boosts) into Canada.

The young Canadian does not hear enough about the achievements of the British race. The broadcasting of the glories of "God's own country" have given him earache.

Mr. Hinchliffe is doing his bit, in his official capacity, to give us the pat on the back we refuse to give ourselves.

Recently he set an examination for all the school children of British Columbia. He asked them to name in order of merit the races which have done most in modern inventions, scientific research, industrial processes, and the development of character. In no case were the British at the head of the list. In the bulk of the papers Americans were at the top of all four subdivisions.

Wishing to discover the mental process by which the children arrived at this result, Mr. Hinchliffe asked the leading pupils: "Don't you think the British have achieved something?"

The answer is illuminating: "Probably they have, but we have never heard about it."

Mr. Hinchliffe is a man of action. He examined the Canadian school books and found them wanting. The problems in the standard arithmetic were based on American illustrations. Those fascinating express trains, which set out at different points at different speeds and met at X, departed from San Francisco and New York, and not from London and Liverpool, nor even from Vancouver and Montreal.

Mr. Hinchliffe scrapped the arithmetic book and ordered a new one, which is now ready. One of the problems it contains runs as follows:

"The British airmen, Alcock and Brown, flew the Atlantic on June 15, 1919. The American airman, Lindbergh, flew the Atlantic on May 21, 1927. State how many years and days the American crossed the Atlantic after the British."

Mr. Hinchliffe has earned merit. The Canadian school children had never heard of Alcock and Brown, but they are told every time Lindbergh's cat has kittens.

More than $1,000,000 worth of black diamonds were shipped from Bahia, Brazil, in the last twelve months.

SUMMARY SHOWS B.C. FISHERIES LED PROVINCES

Hon. S. L. Howe's Report to Legislature Ready for Distribution

VALUE $26,562,727 FOR TWELVE MONTHS

Fishery products of the province in 1928 reached a value of $26,562,727, or 48 per cent of Canada's total of $55,050,972, it is shown in the report of Hon. S. L. Howe, now printed for distribution. In that year British Columbia again, as she has for many years, led all the provinces of the Dominion in the value of her fishery products. Her output exceeded in value that of Nova Scotia, the second in rank, by $14,880,732, and it also exceeded that of all the other provinces combined by $9,756,476.

The capital invested in the fisheries in British Columbia in 1928 was $32,926,323, or 56 per cent of the total capital employed in fisheries in Canada. Of the $32,926,325 invested in the fisheries of British Columbia in 1928, $11,964,987 was employed in catching and handling the catches and $20,961,336 invested in canneries, fish-packing establishments and fish-reduction plants.

The number of persons engaged in the British Columbia fisheries in 1928 was 18,994, or 24 per cent of Canada's total of 78,219. Of the 18,994 engaged in British Columbia, 11,818 were employed in catching and handling the fish and 7,176 in packing, curing and in fish reduction. The total number of persons engaged in 1928 was 2,328 less than in 1927.

The salmon fisheries of British Columbia in 1928 produced $17,346,670, or 65 per cent of her total. Halibut landings totaled $3,370,670; herring, $1,808,944. The catch of pilchards produced $2,563,130, a gain over 1927 of $724,272, due to an increased catch and the fact that the fish were very rich in oil.

POPE PIUS RECEIVES EX-PRESIDENT'S SON

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

ROME, Aug. 21.—Recalling the time when his celebrated father came to Rome in 1902 to discuss the purchase of monastic lands in the Philippines with Pope Leo XIII, Charles Phelps Taft, of Cincinnati, today was received in a semi-private audience by Pope Pius XI.

The thirty-three-year-old lawyer, who has been the prosecuting attorney of Hamilton County, Ohio, for some time, was presented by Mgr. Francis Spellman, of the American Academy in Rome. Pope Pius expressed great interest in meeting the former president's son and spent some time talking with him.

OF INDIA WILL HAVE TO BE OF NOVEL TYPE

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 21.—Lord Meston of Agra and Dunottar, former Lieutenant-Governor of the United Provinces of India, declared before the Institute of Politics last night that any future constitution for India "will have to be one of a type entirely novel."

Mahatma Gandhi, Lord Meston said, "has been almost consistently used as a catspaw by cleverer and less scrupulous brains in the orthodox camp."

Summarizing the Simon commission recommendations, Lord Meston said he did not agree that the boycott and lawlessness of the last six months are answers to the question how the report appeals to the peoples of India.

Indian Boycotters Submit Conditions Of Peace to Mills

"Outrageous" Terms Offered European-Managed Cotton Plants in Bombay—British Associations in Calcutta Demand Government Firmly Resist

By CARROLL BINDER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

LONDON, Aug. 21. — Britishers, accustomed to deference from subject races, were outraged today as they read the terms offered to Europe-managed cotton mills in Bombay by the Indian Nationalist boycott committee. The directors of twenty-four enterprises, almost ruined by the Gandhite boycott, were offered peace on conditions painfully humiliating to the "die-hards."

First of all, the Nationalists demand that the members of a firm and its managers sever their connection with organizations opposed to the Gandhi passive resistance movement. The young British mill executive, in short, must resign from auxiliary military and police forces, if his firm is to be removed from the Congress blacklist.

AMONG THE DEMANDS

Among the Indians' demands are:

1. Two-thirds of the directors of a firm must be Indian.
2. Its staff must be wholly recruited from Indians.
3. Capital must be 75 per cent Indian.
4. Insurance and banking must be done with Indian firms and the bulk of the purchases made from Indians.

Brady & Company already have already been removed from the blacklist for presumed compliance with these terms, but other firms are reported as unwilling to make such concessions to the boycotters.

In Calcutta, where British planters and jute buyers have been more successful than Bombay manufacturers in resisting the Nationalist propaganda, British associations in a formal meeting demand that the Government firmly resist the Nationalist tide. Similar demands have been voiced here by Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, who yesterday assailed the Government's handling of India and bluntly declared that "these Indian politicians will not obtain Dominion status in their lifetime."

THE BRITISH PRESS

Daily the British press carries similar utterances by other exponents of the traditional British system of dealing with unrest in backward parts of the Empire. But influential organs, such as The Manchester Guardian, argue for a different state of mind and for more tactful policies.

"Churchill and his school do not understand the changes that have lately come about in India and Egypt," asserts The Guardian. "They think of Kipling's India, but that is as dead as mutton. In its place stands a disorganized, feverish mass of people, all at cross purposes except in one respect—that they are determined to manage their own affairs.

"Patience and courtesy, such as the Government is displaying in permitting peace conferences with Gandhi in prison, are urgently needed. Churchill regards them as a sign that our greatness has passed away. It is rather a sign that we are becoming civilized."

MORE MODERATE TONE

That more moderate tone is being voiced increasingly here and offers the best hope that the Viceroy of India, Lord Irwin, with the backing of the Labor Government, will find a solution for a future Government of India on lines acceptable to Gandhi and his fellow Nationalists.

Indians here are confident that some formula regarding the conditions for Dominion status will emerge from the present exchange of letters, conferences and the forthcoming London round-table meeting.

SAYS EUROPEANS SHOW ANIMOSITY AGAINST STATES

New American Tariff Causes Buyers to Avoid Purchase of U.S. Goods

COMPETITION STRONG FOR TOURIST TRADE

By PAUL SCOTT MOWRER

PARIS, Aug. 21.—E. M. Newman, travel lecturer, after several months in Italy, Switzerland and France, declared today to The Chicago Daily News correspondent that he found everywhere genuine animosity, not against the American people, but against the American Government, because of the new American tariff.

"There are no organized boycotts," Mr. Newman said, "but the people in these countries simply prefer not to buy American goods if they can help it. The belief on which this animosity is based is that the United States, while wishing to maintain or expand its own foreign trade, is seeking by tariff barriers to reserve the great American market entirely to itself and shut foreign competitors out."

Mr. Newman has further observed a growing international competition in what he calls the "tourist industry." In particular, Germany and Italy are sparing no efforts to attract tourists, whereas France, he finds, lax both in initiative and in methods.

STUDY PROPOSAL TO QUARTER MINISTRIES

Scheme Conceived by Head Architect of French Government Being Examined in Paris

By CAMILLE LEMERCIER

PARIS, Aug. 21. — Paris, like London, Vienna, Oslo, Brussels, Lisbon and some other European capitals, will at last have a ministries quarter, when and if a scheme conceived by Guillaume Tronchet, head architect of the French Government, and now under examination, is consummated.

At present the French ministries are scattered through every corner of the city. The most important are located in old houses of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries built for members of the royal family or the aristocracy, and these palaces, though of splendid appearance, are not adapted to modern needs.

SECOND RANK MINISTRIES

Second rank ministries—those of Air, Mercantile Marine and Public Health—as well as the offices of undersecretaries, are more or less satisfactorily accommodated in apartment or office buildings.

Such a dispersion is the cause of waste in time and money. M. Tronchet now proposes to concentrate nearly all the ministries behind the military school not far from the Eiffel Tower on the left bank of the Seine. That section, at present used for barracks, is state property and would consequently involve no cost for its acquisition for administrative purposes.

Architect Tronchet suggests the creation there of a magnificent circular zone, where seven avenues planted with trees, would meet, and whence a short but broad alley, to be called the Alley of the Marshals of France, would lead to the beautiful semicircular colonnade of the military school.

A MONUMENTAL ENSEMBLE

All the buildings, each of nine floors, would be of the same design as the Ministry of Labor just completed there, and would constitute a monumental ensemble.

This big scheme is being well received by public opinion, but some Cabinet Ministers are dissatisfied with it. The Minister of Justice dislikes the idea of having to leave the aristocratic Place Vendome, and the Minister of Marine asserts that the Place de la Concorde, with its large horizon, is the best location in Paris for seamen. The latter will probably remain in their historic houses and, of course, there is no question of a divorce of the Foreign Office from the Quai D'Orsay.

Dispatch States Swarms Of Czech Arms Uncovered In Austria and Hungary

By JOHN GUNTHER
(Copyright, 1930 by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

VIENNA, Aug. 21.—One hundred and twenty thousand Czech rifles and 4,000 Czech machine guns are the quarry of a fantastic arms hunt in Hungary and Austria, according to the Prague correspondent of the usually reliable Neue Freie Presse of Vienna.

It is hard to believe that the Czechs would let this dangerous quantity of weapons get to Hungary, their enemy, but this is what has happened as a result of amazing circumstances, reports say.

ORIGINALLY OLD STOCK

These arms were originally old stock, property of the Austro-Hungarian army before the Great War which went to Prague in the post-war settlements. The Czech army could not use them because they were outmoded, but several Balkan countries still have the same kind of stock and therefore the Czech Government turned the weapons over to an agent for the purpose of Balkan sale.

But no Balkan country made a good bid, and the arms arrived in Vienna in October, 1929, where they were stored by a private Czech business man. A neutral military attache protested the presence of the arms, and the Czechs had to get rid of them. A buyer appeared in the shape of a mysterious Italian company with the extraordinary name of the "Bank of the Holy Ghost," and the arms were sold.

IN HUNGARY AND AUSTRIA

Now it is alleged that the same arms are cropping up both in Hungary, which Czechoslovakia has good reasons to wish to be disarmed, and also in the Tyrol and elsewhere in Austria where the Fascist "Heimwehr" (Homeguard) is powerful.

The details of this story are by no means confirmed, but they are getting wide publicity.

SMALL FARMER SEES HELP FROM EXCHANGE

Existence of Livestock Organization Would Be of Great Benefit

"The move in favor of the formation of a livestock exchange in the city of Victoria is something, which, if it can bring about a bettering of the marketing conditions for the small producer, should be heartily indorsed," said one of these small producers yesterday in acquiescing in the operations which it was proposed should be carried out.

As one who was not to be regarded, he said, as a stockman, because his production of livestock was not large enough to allow of such a classification, he alluded to the difficulty which was encountered by him when he wished to market the animals which he had to offer. He was then handicapped, he pointed out, as compared with the farmer who produced in large quantities and who was therefore in a position to be sought after by the prospective buyers. In his case the very fact that he had few animals to market made it a difficult matter to find a purchaser.

If the livestock exchange would afford him an opportunity to overcome this handicap, he felt that there were many who were in the same position as he was who would be delighted to have the assistance of such an organization. It would be a stimulus to production, he said, and would afford something of an assurance that when stock was raised there would be an avenue through which it could find its way to a remunerative market.

While, on account of his small production, this raiser of a limited number of stock did not wish to be quoted as an authority on such matters as the formation of an exchange, he could see in the organization an excellent opportunity to improve the conditions of small farmers.

In the line of fruit production there had been much accomplished, he pointed out, in the line of aiding in a co-operative manner in the marketing of different horticultural lines.

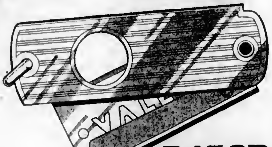

It seemed only right, he said, that something should be done to make the marketing of livestock simpler and more remunerative for the producer. He hoped that the matter would not be allowed to drop, but that the residents of the city, who should be as interested in the helping out of the stock raisers as they were of the fruit producers on the Island, would lend every assistance in bringing about something that would make for more diversified farming than at present.

KNIGHTS TOLD ALL PEOPLES MUST WORK TOGETHER FOR GOOD

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—The Knights of Columbus, assembled here for their forty-eighth annual supreme convention, heard Cardinal O'Connell yesterday for the second time since the convention started.

An executive session was made public during the cardinal's speech. The prelate told the knights that "the welfare of the world is not depending on any one set of people. We must all work together."

"We must arouse ourselves to the fact that we are needed in life," he said, "and that there is room for work among all, Jew or Gentile. The Knights of Columbus is not only a religious organization, but a patriotic one, giving service to God, to church and to country."

The cardinal endorsed the annual report of Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody, of Grand Rapids, Mich., particularly that part which dealt with the importance of the lay apostolate.

MAPS FAIL TO STRESS ISLAND

If any Vancouver Islander, swollen with a sense of pride in his Island home, visits the schools and junior art exhibit at the Willows Fair he will find himself healthily humbled when he examines the maps which young competitors have entered in Class "M" or Class "R." Among the senior grade product maps Vancouver Island will be found neatly enough drawn both in the maps of Canada and of British Columbia. But even with a magnifying glass one cannot find any trace of a product indicated thereon. It is not until one travels around the room to the exhibits in Class "R," section 36, under "Product Map of Canada," that any reminder is found, Margaret Critchley, winner of the first prize, having inserted a rabbit on her drawing of the Island, and Bella Craig, winner of the second, indicating that chickens and eggs are one of the Island industries.

These maps are among the best things in the general art exhibition, for even if they do demonstrate that teaching is along lines too broad to bother very much about very local industries such as what is grown or produced on a little spot like Vancouver Island, they do indicate that Canadian boys and girls are getting an idea, not only of the shape of the country they live in, but also of what grows therein.

Bella Craig, winner of the second prize in the foregoing, is winner of first in Section 35, Class "R," which is a product map of British Columbia; and Margaret Critchley is winner of second. Between them they succeed in indicating everything in the way of wildfowl, fish, savage animals, whales, and the multitudinous agricultural products. The winner of the first, strangely enough, neglected the dairy industry of the Fraser Valley as well as the grain-growing of the Peace River country, both important points which the winner of the second noted. The railways are well defined, and the drawing is good.

Alberta Critchley won the first prize in Section 12, Class "R," and Gertrude Walker won the second. These clever young people, showing in the senior grade school exhibit, have sent in admirable produce maps of Canada. The drawing and printing is wonderfully neat and accurate, and each is fitted with a splendid key, which indicates the whereabouts of mineral deposits, wild animals, fisheries, lumber, railways, agriculture, steamships, game, manufactures, etc. In this day of visual learning it projects an immediate and enduring bird's-eye picture of any part of the Dominion and the characteristic product of that area. One of the very best maps in the whole collection, however, is Georgette Lennartz', which is also a product map entered in Section 11, Class "R." This has one of the finest collections of pictures and one of the best map keys in the exhibition.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' WORK

Class "M," devoted entirely to art work by boys and girls between the ages of fifteen and seventeen, has a number of very attractive things. Etta Sparks' oil painting, for instance, is worth noting. Winner of Section 55, it is a very pleasing subject, showing very clever technique. The greens are a little too yellow, but the composition as a whole is one of the best pictures in the section. Another delightful little picture is Kathleen Burtt's landscape, which won Section 61 first prize. This is a snow scene, with not too much detail, and a happy subject.

Grace Tuckey is one of the luckiest of the young competitors in the art section. She won a first prize in Section 62, water-color marine group, with a tiny picture which shows nice appreciation of values, in Section 63 she took a second with a water-color painting of a collie dog, the winner of the first being Dulce MacNeill, who painted a parrot for her subject; again in Section 66 (fruit painted in water color), Grace Tuckey took second prize with a picture of grapes, oranges, etc.; and in Section 75, "design for border," she used grapes again as the subject of the entry with which she won a second prize, Kathleen Burtt's very original parrot design, carried out in orange and red and black, winning the first.

VERSATILITY

If any young competitor were able to enter in all classes offered for young people he would be versatile indeed. There are classes for monochrome water colors, monochrome oils, designs for given space, water-color figures, water-color flowers, water-color animals, insect designs, etc. Patrick Higgins chose roses, and painted them very well indeed, for the picture with which he won first prize in Section 65, and Helen Peden won the second prize in Section 67 with a Chinese panel introducing birds, a temple, and other characteristic features. Her monochrome water color, working out a formal design in shades of mauve, was even more striking. Maureen Grute won the first prize in Section 74 by filling her design for given space with a conventional sweet-pea design.

A strikingly fine bit of illuminated design, using a conventionalized butterfly, won for Alberta Critchley's entry in Section 1 the first prize. Very elaborate design, suggesting fine needlework in its effect, was used by Georgette Lennartz in another winning entry. Doreen Kennally used almost pure straight line, although of very short length, in the clever drawing in outline of a child among pillows. This won a first prize. Carron Jameson's basket of roses, painted in water color, was another successful entry which easily deserves the first prize which it won in Section 39.

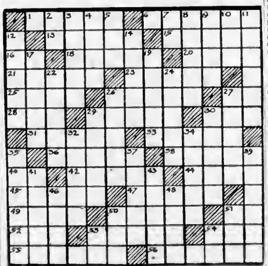

This part of the exhibition contains a great deal of interest in groups for photography, woodcarving, insect exhibits, and other things of the kind. But while there is a great deal of excellent material, there is also much that is very poor, and visitors will sincerely hope that the standard can in some way be improved as time goes on.

DEATH CLAIMS ONE OF EARLIEST RESIDENTS IN SOUTH VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21. — The death yesterday of James William Russell Rowling, sixty-eight, Vancouver, removed a native son of British Columbia and one of the earliest residents in South Vancouver district.

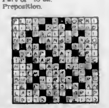

The deceased was born at Sapperton in 1862. His father, Corporal William H. Rowling, accompanied Colonel Moody, of the Royal Engineers from England to British Columbia in 1858. On leaving the service, William Rowling filed on a homestead of 160 acres on the southern slope east of Victoria Road, including Rowling Island, in the North Fraser, which was named after him.

MINERALOGIST MAKES REPORT ON LOCAL MINE

Aluminum Deposits in Saanich Subject of Detailed Official Review

J. D. GALLOWAY GIVES RESULTS OF FINDINGS

After investigation by J. D. Galloway, provincial mineralogist, a detailed report was issued yesterday by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Mines, concerning the promotion of an aluminium industry in Saanich, just outside Victoria. In a five-page report on the subject, made by Mr. Galloway to the minister, the provincial mineralogist stated:

"In the daily press, statements have recently been made that a large deposit of aluminium-bearing rock near Victoria, was to be developed with the idea of establishing an aluminium industry and producing metallic aluminium. The principal promoter of this project is W. J. Kelly. Three mineral claims—the Josephine, Marguerite and Wolverine—have been staked, and it has been stated by him that bauxite ore and aluminium-bearing material of commercial importance occur in large quantities on the property. No company has been formed as yet, the business so far having been conducted as a syndicate.

"According to Mr Kelly, it is proposed to incorporate the Victoria Aluminium Company. The small amount of money so far expended has been subscribed by San Francisco and Victoria people. No active mining has been started, but some road work has been done and camp buildings erected The claims are situated on part of the Rithet estate at Royal Oak, about eight miles from Victoria.

GEOLOGIC FEATURES

"The Victoria and Saanich map areas have been geologically mapped by Dr. C. H. Clapp, of the Geological Survey of Canada. The Royal Oak section is underlain by the Wark gabbro-diorite gneiss and the Colquitz quartz-diorite gneiss. Cutting these plutonic rocks are numerous apophyses of aplite and pegmatite.

"The principal deposit on this property which is referred to as the aluminum ore is an aplite phase of considerable size and stands out prominently as a bluff. It is a white to gray fine-grained rock, consisting essentially of quartz and feldspar. On other parts of the property the diorite and gabbro rocks are exposed. These are darker colored, generally greenish and show considerable variation in texture and composition.

"Nowhere on the property is there anything resembling bauxite (the true ore of aluminium), and none of the rocks exposed are of any commercial value as a source of aluminium.

ANALYSES MADE

"Following are partial analyses of two samples taken from the property. No. 1 is the light-colored rock forming the bluff behind the camp. No. 2 is a sample of the darker rock taken from an old prospect hole some 1,500 feet northerly from the camp.

	No. 1	No. 2
Alumina (Al_2O_3)	23.0%	15.2%
Silica	44.4%	76.5%
Iron Oxide (Fe_2O_3)	10.1%	0.8%
Lime (CaO)	16.8%	2.0%

"It is to be noted that the alumina contained in these samples is in the form of a silicate, and not amenable to the ordinary treatment processes of producing refined alumina which is used in making aluminium. The alumina content of bauxite occurs as the oxide and not in combination with silica.

EXTRACTION PROPOSED

"In order to properly appraise this proposal, a brief description of the aluminium industry is necessary.

"The world output of aluminium is almost entirely made from bauxite, which is found in large quantities in many places. Bauxite is hydrated aluminium oxide, occurring as an earthy mineral and never crystallized. Theoretically pure bauxite contains 73.9 per cent alumina (39.2 per cent aluminium) and 26.1 per cent water. The trade specifications demand that bauxite for aluminium manufacture must contain at least 52 per cent alumina and not over 15 per cent combined iron and silica. Usually, silica percentage must not be over 7 per cent. Practically no concentration is done on bauxite, so that the crude ore as mined, must contain at least 50 per cent alumina.

"The crude bauxite is treated chemically for the production of refined alumina, and this material is then electrically smelted for the production of metallic aluminium. Both processes are costly, which explains why only material high in alumina can be considered as a commercial source of aluminium.

"Bauxite contains the alumina in a form in which it is soluble in alkalies, which is not the case with the alumina contained in rock matter, such as occurs on the Kelly property. Alumina is the second most common rock forming mineral in igneous rocks. Vast quantities of the more acid igneous rocks contain from 10 to 30 per cent alumina. It is a fact that there are inexhaustible quantities of rock matter in British Columbia containing as much or more alumina as the rock on the Kelly property. Futhermore, many of the clays of the province contain much higher percentages of alumina than the deposit on the Kelly property. None of these sources of alumina, however, can possibly compete with bauxite in the production of aluminium, as the alumina is not in a form in which it can be extracted at a profit by present known processes.

"The bauxite production in the United States in 1928 was worth approximately $6 per long ton, f.o.b. the mines.

PUBLIC IS WARNED

"In considering this proposal to produce aluminium from this material, the following points should be noted;

"(1) The alumina content of the rock in the Kelly deposit is not in a form amenable to economic recovery by present commercial methods.

"(2) The alumina content is much too low to warrant consideration as a commercial source of aluminium. Assuming an average alumina content in this material of 18 per cent, it is only about one-third that of bauxite ore, as used for aluminium production.

"(3) Apart from other considerations, the silica content of this ore is so high as to definitely bar it as a source of aluminium in a commercial plant.

"The proposal to produce aluminium commercially by standard methods from rock-matter containing about 16 per cent alumina is ridiculous, and can only be accounted for by a complete ignorance of the real facts of aluminium production. The statement that there is 100,000,000 tons of material in this deposit may or may not be correct, but there are billions of tons of similar material available in many parts of British Columbia.

"The investing public is hereby warned that no reliance should be placed on the statements of promoters of this enterprise, as reported recently in the press, as they are not in accordance with facts," concludes the report.

E. & N. Official Acts Promptly to Secure Test Here

PROMPT action by J. M. Cameron, superintendent of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, may bring about an early test of the Brown-Cyclone spark arrester for coal-fired locomotives on the Island, it was learned yesterday, following communications between Mr. Cameron, who is a member of the coal research committee, and the patent owners in Seattle. A reply from the Brown-Cyclone interests is expected within the next few days. The importance of the proposed test lies in the fact that elimination of sparks is claimed for coal locomotives using the device, and, if this is proved, it might lead to greatly increased use of British Columbia soft coal by railroads generally, it is believed.

City & District

Arrive by Plane—V. Gorst and C. L. Scott arrived in Victoria Harbor at 8:07 last night to meet the steamer Empress of Japan. They traveled by seaplane from Seattle.

Visitor in City—E. F. Helliwell, general commercial superintendent of B.C. Telephones, of Vancouver, was a visitor in Victoria yesterday and attended the exhibition, where the company is demonstrating the new dial system to be in operation in Victoria this Fall.

Attendance at Fair—Paid admissions to the exhibition at the Willows on Thursday reached a total of 5,505, as compared with 4,576 on the corresponding day of 1929, an increase for yesterday of 920. The afternoon attendance yesterday was 2,276 and the evening, 3,320.

Grass and Bush Fire—Firemen from No. 8 hall were busy for a few minutes yesterday fighting a small grass fire at Windsor and Oliver Streets. The call was turned in at 3:01 p.m. A bush fire at 248 Wildwood Avenue at 6:52 p.m. was extinguished by residents of the vicinity.

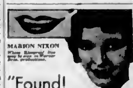

Crushed Toe—Frank Sam, Chinese, employed by the McMillan Export Co., Malahat Station, had the big toe of his right foot crushed in an accident on the company's plant yesterday morning. He was brought to the St. Joseph's Hospital at 12:15 o'clock noon, where he was attended by Dr. A. E. McMicking.

Coming for Foxes—Charles Gunnerson, who is representing some financial interests in Malmo, Sweden, is expected to arrive here on September 15, to further investigate the fox industry, and hopes to spend two months on the Coast before he returns with his foxes during November. He hopes to take at least one hundred pairs of breeding foxes back with him.

Tribute Paid—At yesterday's luncheon of the Rotary Club, held in the grill room of the Empress Hotel, the members rose in silent tribute to the memory of W. Nachtrieb. In calling upon the members to rise, Rev. M. W. J. Bruce, president of the club, paid tribute to Mr. Nachtrieb, who, he said, was a real Rotarian in the best sense of the word.

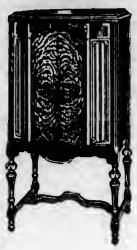

Youngest Stockman — In connection with the photograph appearing in yesterday's issue of The Colonist of Richard Milton, said to be the youngest stock owner in the Western States, it is of interest to note that Kenneth Fraser McKenzie, aged eight years, is believed to be the youngest stockman in Canada. Kenneth, who resides at Metchosin, has never had any financial assistance, but was given a lamb when he was four years old. He started sheep raising entirely on his own initiative and is now the proud possessor of a flock of sixteen sheep.

When Dr. Julio Prestes, President-Elect of Brazil, arrived in England as the guest of the British Government, he was greeted by the Prince of Wales, Lord Byng of Vimy, Foreign Secretary Henderson and heads of the army, navy and Air Force.

BURNABY BOARD BALKS AT HIGH SCHOOL RULING

Instructs Principals to Continue Three-Year Course Despite Regulations

DEMANDS FINANCIAL AID BEFORE CHANGING

BURNABY, Aug. 21.—Defying the order of the Provincial Department of Education, the school board last night instructed the principals of Burnaby South and Burnaby North High Schools to ignore official regulations regarding establishment of a four-year high school course.

The trustees voiced unanimous protest against the action of the provincial council in ordering a four-year course without providing for the additional expense involved.

Chairman James P. Dickson dissented from the board's action in instructing its principals to ignore the provincial order, declaring that the school board had no jurisdiction in the matter.

RESOLUTION CARRIED

Other members of the board, however, insisted, and the resolution instructing the secretary to inform the principals not to provide for a four-year course was passed by a majority vote.

"I quite agree with the board registering a protest, but when you propose to ignore the instructions of the department and so inform your principals, you are holding yourselves up to ridicule," Chairman Dickson said.

"If the principals appeal to the department, it is quite evident they will be upheld and the board will look foolish."

SEEKS DEFINITE ANSWER

Trustee C. M. M. Harper declared that the Minister of Education had agreed that Burnaby should have more assistance financially, but so far no further aid had been granted. This might bring the matter to a head.

"We have tried to get a definite ruling from the department whether the four-year course is compulsory," he declared, "and we have failed to obtain it. By instructing the principals to arrange for a three-year course only we shall get a definite answer."

OLMSTED TAKES STAND IN TRIAL AT SEATTLE

Breaks Silence to Testify in Court Against Men Who Sent Him to Prison

SEATTLE, Aug. 21.—Eagerly and emphatically, Roy Olmsted, erstwhile king of Pacific Northwest rum runners, broke his silence today to testify in Federal Court here against the men who sent him to prison.

Unlike Fred M. Hubbard, his former protege, who succeeded him as a witness in the case, Olmsted has never told his version of the organization of the greatest liquor ring this region has ever known.

Hubbard's testimony and cross-examination required five days. It was climaxed today with his admission that he had joined the prohibition forces as an agent to "get" William M. Whitney, former assistant administrator, because Hubbard felt Whitney had wronged him, including him among those indicted in the first Olmsted liquor conspiracy case.

In addition to Whitney, Roy C. Lyle, former prohibition administrator; Earl, former chief field agent; R. L. Fryant, former agent, and C. T. McKinney, former assistant United States attorney, are defendants in the present case in which Hubbard was called as the Government's star witness.

Olmsted asserted he had been called upon by C. T. McKinney, then chief assistant United States attorney here, to "take out Federal insurance in the form of a $3,000 contribution to the gubernatorial campaign of Thomas P. Revele, to prevent interference with Olmsted's extensive liquor operations.

Olmsted said he paid the $3,000 and that he made numerous presents of from $50,000 to $100,000 and bottles of gin to McKinney until the first Olmsted case came to trial in 1926.

FAIR CONTINUES TO DRAW LARGE CROWD

said he was impressed with the entries of Mrs. McGregor, of Metchosin, and Mr. Harrup, of Mount Tolmie, in the Shropshire classes. He also said that the classes of market lambs were exceptionally good and that Victoria and Vancouver Island had every reason to be proud of the showing made at the exhibition, as the show had more entries and a higher average in quality than any he had seen. Mr. Wilson expected to make quick work of the judging when he arrived in Victoria, but it took him three full days to complete the awards because of the standard set in all classes.

A NOTABLE SHOWING

Having won a total of thirty-three first prizes, including grand champions and champions, the Vancouver Livestock Exchange holds a unique position in the showing of livestock at the Victoria Exhibition this week. The exchange exhibited four classes, Guernseys, Jerseys, Ayrshires and Holsteins, and judging was completed yesterday noon and results announced by officials of the fair.

Kenneth Hay, in charge of the dairy cattle branch of the exchange, yesterday, concluded his sixth show of the season, having exhibited at Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Vancouver and Victoria, having won such awards as grand champion Guernsey bull and junior champions in bull and cow in the same class.

The herd was brought to Victoria over the last week-end in three cars under the personal direction of Mr. Hay. The cattle exhibited by the exchange were from the ranches of the following breeders:

Guernseys—Ira Clark, Mrs. J. Hepburn, J. T. McCutcheon, Cyril Roberts, all of Sardis, B.C.

Jerseys—A. E. Dumvill, Sardis.

Ayrshires—E. A. Wells, Sardis.

Holsteins—G. A. Paul & Son, Chilliwack, B.C.

In the prize awards the Guernseys took eleven firsts, Jerseys, twelve firsts, Ayrshires, eight firsts, and Holsteins, two firsts. The herd also took a number of seconds and thirds, and to top the grand showing the grand champion cow, Boneless Prune, in the Ayrshires, gave birth to twin heifers, which were on exhibition to the public in a stall yesterday, along with the mother cow. Special prizes at the Victoria fair included grand champion Guernsey cow, senior champion Guernsey cow, junior champion Guernsey cow, junior champion Guernsey bull, grand and senior champion cow in the Ayrshire class, first in aged herd in Ayrshires, first in breeder's herd Ayrshires, first in young herd in Ayrshires and senior and grand champion Holstein bull.

The herd will be in the livestock building today and tomorrow, and will leave Saturday night for the Mainland.

Will Glide Over English Channel On Storm Cloud

WASSERKRUPPE, Germany, Aug. 21.—Lieut. Hasse Hammer, of the German Military Police, one of the contestants in the international gliding competition here, said yesterday that he planned to glide over the English Channel next March.

The novel feature of his scheme is that he intends to ride up on the clouds and winds of a storm. He will use his present machine, a wide-spread monoplane, and will soar off from Folkestone, England, with the first thunderstorm that heads toward Calais. He intends to carry a parachute and lifebelt.

making the actual Channel crossing in about 20 minutes.

The Prince was escorted by an airplane of the Royal Air Force.

In Wales, continuous rains and gales overflowed the Rivers Union and Arran at Dolgelley, and the water entered several houses. Motor traffic was held up.

RHONDDA RIVER AREA

In the Rhondda River district, where thousands of pounds were spent last year on protecting walls, the rains caused the river to overflow its banks, inundating many houses in the Pontypridd district.

Holiday-makers on the Southeast Coast were driven from the beaches and promenades by a strong southerly gale and drenching rainstorms. All cross Channel steamers and air liners were badly buffeted.

Rain fell all through the night and washed out the cricket match at Kennington Oval, where play between Australia and England was abandoned for the day.

PROTECTIVE TARIFF AND SIX-HOUR DAY NEEDED, MOORE SAYS

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—Tariff for protection, not for revenue; a six-hour day, five day week, and unemployment insurance worked out on a national basis to suit Canada's needs, are the things necessary to aid Canadian workmen, Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, stated in an interview here.

"Labor in the past has not been at all satisfied with the way the tariff has been handled," Mr. Moore said. "What I believe we shall now get under the Bennett Government is a tariff for protection." Mr. Moore felt that the coming special session of Parliament would help to focus the attention of the people upon the question of tariff and unemployment. He agreed with A. A. Heaps, Winnipeg member of Parliament, that the League of Nations would eventually have to take up the question of unemployment, which was a world problem.

Make Rapid Progress In Air Dash Towards North Magnetic Pole

Burwash noted explorer, are making rapid progress in their dash towards the north magnetic pole, according to word received by officials of the air company here today.

Gilbert's exact position is unknown, but he is believed to be in the vicinity of Dease Point, heading northeast toward Boothia Peninsula, where the magnetic pole is located.

Stamp-vending machines are being introduced into Dublin, Ireland.

SAYS READING DIETS WILL BE FORMULATED

Librarian Tells Hospitals Convention of Plans for Supplying Institutes With Suitable Books

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21. — "I believe it will become possible in the future to make up reading diets in much the same way as it is possible to make up food diets," declared Helen G. Stewart, speaking at the hospitals convention here today.

Dr. Stewart, whose headquarters are in New Westminster, is British Columbia director of Carnegie libraries.

The speaker offered to place the facilities of her organization at the disposal of the hospitals of British Columbia in working out a scheme under which each hospital would be provided with books from a central depot, these volumes to circulate throughout the hospitals of the province.

Advocating the need of libraries well stocked with books carefully selected by experts with training and knowledge in this work, she expressed the belief that the provision of suitable reading matter would be of much benefit to patients.

In an analytical and constructive address, Dr. Stewart dealt with all phases of the proposition. A survey was made in British Columbia in 1926-27 which showed that of the forty-one institutions giving information well over one-third of these hospitals admitted they had made no definite provision for library services, she said. The remainder did maintain a collection either large or small. In some cases this collection consisted of from twenty-five to fifty books, the number ranging from that up to about one thousand. The total stock of the whole of the institutions, she said, was something under five thousand.

DUMPING OF DOORS STOPPED BY OTTAWA

Acting Prime Minister Announces Action and Warns Producers Against Exploitation

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—The Dominion Government has taken action to stop the dumping of large quantities of fir doors in Canada. Announcement was made by Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, today, of the passing of an order in council fixing at a "reasonable price" the valuations of such imports for customs duty purposes, "in order to preserve the home market and to give Canadian workmen a fair and equal opportunity of producing such doors."

Some days ago it was brought to the notice of the Government that large quantities of these doors were being dumped into this country. In consequence, Canadian factories had been forced to reduce employment and to run on short time in order to restrict their output.

In making this announcement Sir George Perley emphasized that "in accordance with the recognized policy of the Conservative party, domestic manufacturers of doors or any other articles must not take advantage of the tariff, or of any such order in council, to charge consumers unfair prices. During the last election it was made abundantly clear that the Conservative party intends to use all means in its power to give Canadians work in our own country, but at the same time it will not permit anyone to exploit the public or to charge the consumers unfair prices.

Viceroy of India Receives Gandhi Peace Proposals

SIMLA, India, Aug. 21.—The chief development of the situation in India today lay in the reception by Lord Irwin, Viceroy, of a letter from Mahatma Gandhi, outlining the conditions under which he would be willing to call off the civil disobedience and passive resistance campaign he has conducted for many months.

Whether or not the terms of the letter called for the release of all prisoners committed to jail as a result of passive resistance, as hinted in previous dispatches from London, was not disclosed.

Meanwhile, leaders of the All-India National Congress published the terms under which they are willing to call off the boycott of European managed cotton mills.

Considered Perfect English Beauty

HON. MARIE LYON-DALBERG-ACTON

Eldest sister of Lord Acton, has been called a perfect example of the British type of beauty, although she comes from one of the most Teutonic of English families, her father having been born in Bavaria. Through the Dalberg strain the Actons trace their lineage to the most ancient and illustrious family in Germany, which claims descent from one of the Saviour's relatives who was reputed to have become a Roman centurion and to have settled at Hermstein.

Miss Tervo Is Married to G. Waddington

Martha Winifred, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Tervo, 1325 Johnson Street, was a charming bride last evening when Rev. Bruce Gray united her in marriage to Mr. Guy Waddington, younger son of Mr. Fred Waddington and the late Mrs. Waddington. The ceremony took place at the First United Church at 8.30 o'clock and masses of beautiful flowers had been used in decoration. Gladioli, dahlias, asters and greenery were combined effectively to form a background, and the guest pews were marked with clusters of flowers, tied with tulle.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in her simply-fashioned sleeveless wedding gown of heavy white satin, made on long classical lines, her veil of Brussels net falling from a rose-point lace cap. She carried a sheaf of white gladioli and wore as her only ornament a string of pearls.

Miss Esther Tervo, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Misses Winnet Copeland, Maye Thomson and Clara Tervo, gowned in similarly-fashioned frocks of organdie, with high-waisted bodices, puff sleeves and long skirts made with four deep flounces. Their hats were of organdie to match and they carried Colonial bouquets. The maid of honor's frock was pale green, while the other attendants chose primrose yellow and orchid. Mr. Thomas Little was best man and the ushers were Randolph Tervo, Beverley Fyfe, Edward Breckenridge and Lionel Huxtable. During the signing of the register, Beverley Fyfe sang "Love's Coronation."

RECEPTION HELD

A reception was held later at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride and groom received the good wishes of their friends standing between tall baskets of flowers in the drawing-room.

They were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Tervo, who wore a becoming gown of biege lace, with brown mohair hat and sable fur. Mrs. Waddington, stepmother of the groom, wore a blue Paris ensemble and hat to match.

The supper table, which was centred with a handsome wedding cake was decorated with roses, pale green tulle and white tapers in green holders.

TO LIVE IN SOUTH

Mr and Mrs. Waddington left for Seattle en route to Pasadena, where they will make their home. The bride traveled in a rose beige ensemble with tuck-in blouse of fawn crepe, a smart model hat of felt to match and a red fox fur.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of the University of British Columbia, the bride of the 1929 class and the groom of the class of 1928. Mr. Waddington is now a member of the faculty of the California Institute of Technology.

Stockingless Fashion Called Un-Christian

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 21.—The stockingless fad for young girls was deplored as an "un-Christian practice" in a resolution on dress reform passed here today by the National Catholic Women's Union.

Declaring the practice of "dressing little girls in a manner which is directly contrary to the rules of Christian modesty" was becoming quite universal, the resolution added that, not only are stockings discarded, but the lower limbs are left completely uncovered.

"The necessary result of this un-Christian practice," the resolution continued, "is the complete loss of the sense of modesty in these young girls growing up, who in later years will not understand what this virtue means to them."

Laying the blame on the mothers, the resolution recommended dress reform begin at the time the children graduate from the elementary course in school.

The first regular programme of the National Air Races at Chicago will be broadcast tomorrow morning from 10 to 10.45 o'clock when the races will officially open. At this time, army, navy and marine corps squadrons will manoeuvre over the field, and there will be a twenty-one-gun salute.

Major Reed Landis, son of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis; Major Rudolph Schroeder and other visiting celebrities will speak. During the week of the races daily pickups at which famous American and foreign pilots will be heard, have been arranged.

American automobiles are increasing in popularity in Italy.

Prince Replaces Vase By His Statuette

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Miss Raymond, an elderly and humble resident of the South of London, has been made happy by a kindly act of the Prince of Wales. She lives in a hotel in the neighborhood of the cricket ground where the Prince went Tuesday to attend the England-Australia match.

During an interval in the play the Prince and a party of friends visited the hotel and one of the old lady's vases accidentally was overthrown and broken.

FINE RIDING SEEN AT PROVINCIAL FAIR

Second Day of Jumping Exhibition at Willows Is Replete With Thrills

The second exhibition of the Victoria Horse Show, held last night in the old Horse Show Building at the Willows, was one of the outstanding events of the Provincial Exhibition. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor was present for the final judging, and the crowd which attended last night's display had full value for its money.

The jumping of four-horse teams in itself provided a great thrill, four horses taking the hurdle and brush jumps abreast. The majority of the events were again accorded to the Victoria Riding Academy, Mrs. Carley winning the contest for "Five-Gaited Saddle Horses" by a fairly easy margin.

FINE RIDING

The greatest enthusiasm was evinced by Richard Garrett's performance on his little bay mare, Rosie. He beat Major Spurgin in the open jumping performance contest by a small margin. Major Spurgin was riding Surprise.

Both riders went round the jumps in splendid style, seeming to be part of their mounts. The final jump of this contest was three rails, set on a slope, and acknowledged as one of the most tricky problems of a contest of this nature. Out of six entries, five cleared this jump without dislodging a rail.

OTHER WINNERS

Major Spurgin, riding Surprise, won the contest for lightweight hunters. Miss Joan Humphries, of Victoria, rode her mare Baisie to victory in the class for ponies under 14.2 hands.

Mrs. Carley also carried off prizes for ladies' hunters and saddle horses under 15.2 hands, winning from Muriel Price, of Duncan, after an arduous contest.

Scotch cairns were declared to be the women's favorites at the recent Terrier Club's show in London.

Judge Praises Work Shown By Schoolgirls

Miss K. Morrison, of Vancouver, judge of the domestic science department of the Willows Exhibition, spoke enthusiastically yesterday of the quality of the display in the Women's Building. She was particularly struck with the excellence of the exhibits in the junior section, she said, and added that here was further evidence of the value and success of the school domestic science classes.

The loaf of brown bread which won first prize in this section rivaled any loaf of bread in the show, she declared, its color, texture and flavor all being perfect. The muffins and cakes, too, were well made, and the jellies and jams were particularly fine.

In the adult open classes, the bread was also very well made, and some tempting scones and dinner rolls well-nigh reached perfection. The art of canning had been practised by many new exhibitors, and fruits, pickles, fish and even pickled eggs were ranged in neat rows, which called forth many admiring remarks from the visitors.

The exhibition could not fail to encourage better work, she added, and was a great incentive to the younger exhibitors to send in more each year and to benefit by the very helpful criticism of the more experienced judge.

WHIRLING PROPELLER BLADE KILLS AIRMAN

Fatality First of Its Kind in History of Dominion Aviation

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Aug. 21.—Climbing up on top of the plane to adjust the motor, George F. Parsons, thirty-two, Toronto, was instantly killed yesterday when he fell into the whirling blades of the propeller. Prominent airmen believe it is the first fatality of its kind in the history of Dominion aviation.

Parsons, a member of the Toronto Flying Club and a pilot in the Great War, had flown an amphibian biplane to Wasage Beach a week ago. The machine was the only one of its kind in the Dominion, it is claimed. The engine and propeller are situated overhead.

After considerable tinkering Parsons was able to start the engine, but, in getting down, he slipped and fell into the whirling blades of the propeller. The body will be sent to the home of his parents in Port Arthur.

Attain "Chic" With a Small Velvet Hat

Youthful Berettas are distinctly different. This season their importance is in the graceful draping with narrow band of ribbon or all velvet. The draped beret or tam with its shallow crown and longer shirred back is very becoming as it nestles on a youthful head and when worn with a finish of ribbon or velvet bow the effect is particularly pleasing. Lord Burghley Beaten In High Hurdles Heat

South African Springs Great Surprise in Defeating Titled English Athlete—Phil Edwards Eliminated in Mile and 880-Yard Events—17,000 in Attendance

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 21.—Crowding one sensation upon another until darkness settled down upon the Hamilton Civic Stadium tonight, the second day's track and field meet of the British Empire games sounded a call to champions and the achievement of champions.

As the fall of records was hailed with roars of approval from 16,000 persons packed into the stands, there stood out in bold relief the great effort of Percy Williams, son of a proud Dominion, who streaked his way down a centre line from a belated start to win his 100-yard heat in 6 2-5 seconds, equaling the Canadian mark.

Upsetting popular calculations, came the sensational defeat of Lord Burghley, England's titled hurdler, when a stalwart son of South Africa, J. H. Viljoen flung himself into the tape, a winner by inches in the 120-yard high hurdles heat.

Records were equaled and broken in confusing succession as a brilliant programme of sport was unfolded. Three Canadian marks were shattered, and one was twice broken within a two-minute interval.

EQUALS CANADIAN MARK

Williams' performance equaled the Canadian record, and another mark went under when the course record was broken in the full distance marathon. Two hours 43 minutes and 43 seconds was the time made by Douglas McLeod Wright, Scotland's lone entry in the trying journey over city and suburban roadways. The old record was 2 hours 44 minutes and 34 2-5 seconds, set by Cliff Bricker in 1928.

Of the six other championships that were fought out in finals today, England and South Africa divided with three titles each. A double victory was the achievement of O. M. Hart, South African strong man, whose powerful arms hurled the hammer and discus beyond any distance set by his rivals.

Perhaps not since Percy Williams startled a cynical sport world at Amsterdam in the Olympic of 1928, has there been a more thrilling and sensational victory. The thousands in the Hamilton Stadium today literally gasped as the slender Vancouver boy broke last in a field of six, and was all but left flat-footed.

Out in front shot little Buster Brown, another product of the West, on whom Edmonton placed its hopes, at his elbow flashed the green-clad form of Waller Gerhardt, South African challenger, and a step or two behind came Roy Hamilton, of Scotland, and David Belvin, of Bermuda.

CROWD ACCLAIMS PERCY

A sudden tenseness was broken as Williams' white clad figure hurled down the No. 1 lane and overtook Belvin and Hamilton. A roar of acclaim went up as the crowd sensed a victory that held everything of the spectacular. Percy's legs were lifted high each step. Brown faltered just a trifle, but Gerhardt sped on. As they swept past the fifty-yard mark Williams had pulled up on even terms with Brown.

Flashing down his lane, Williams opened up the daylight gradually between himself and the plucky Edmonton lad. At the finish, 4 1-2 yards intervened between the Vancouver speedster and the pack, but Brown had faltered, and speeding Gerhardt, of South Africa, had edged by inches into the qualifying position. D. C. Belvin, Bermuda, Roy Hamilton, Scotland, and J. C. Heap, England, were outdistanced.

In defeating Lord Burghley, Viljoen was forced to better the Canadian record for the event, winning in 14 9-10 seconds to set back the mark of E. Svencer, United States, who posted 15 1-5 in Toronto in 1927.

But no sooner had the record been broken than it was again smashed. Manx, who had followed Lord Burghley's every move in his valiant effort, looked upon the second heat as just another race. But it proved more than that. For Davies, South Africa's real threat for world supremacy among high hurdlers, romped along to an easy win over F. R. Gaby, of England, and again lowered the mark in 14 7-10.

ENGLAND SCORES HEAVILY

England, Mother Country of the Empire, who has crowned more champions at these games than any of her Dominions and colonies, scored heavily in the final of the 880 yards. T. Hampson, with a new Canadian record of 52 2-5 seconds, bettering the mark of E. Lunghi, of the United States, by two-fifths of a second. Behind him came R. M Thomas, another English entrant, and then Alex Wilson, Canadian.

The defeat of Phil Edwards in the quarter-mile was another surprise in store. Phil fell before the brilliant running of W. J. Wallers, South Africa, and Jimmy Ball. Edwards again was a disappointment in the final of the 880. He had qualified last Saturday, but landed today in fourth place, badly beaten.

PERCY WILLIAMS

Who won his way to the final of the 100-yard Empire sports dash yesterday when he won his heat after a belated start. Williams started last, but out on a terrific burst of speed to equal the Canadian record of 9 3-5 seconds.

SCOTTISH RUNNER MARATHON WINNER

Duncan McLeod Wright Leads Field Home in British Empire Games—Englishman Second

CIVIC STADIUM, HAMILTON, Aug 21.—Duncan McLeod Wright, Scotland's slender little distance champion plodded to the marathon championship of the British Empire tonight, leading a field of fifteen over the long grind. More than half a mile in front of his closest rival, the fair-headed, smiling Scot, entered the stadium and ran three times around the quarter-mile track as 17,000 spectators rose with a deafening roar to pay tribute to his triumph.

Sam Ferris, lean, long Englishman, who had trailed Wright for miles before the Glasgow commercial traveler drew away into an unbeatable lead, was second, and Johnny Miles, Nova Scotian star, running for Hamilton Olympic Club, third.

The local man is in good shape for the bout and should give a good account of himself against the Portlander. Tickets for the show may be had from F. B. Georgia Punch Not All in Peaches

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher, New York Giants)

Willie Stribling polished off "Phalling Phil" Scott in London recently and now looms as a potential heavyweight champ. If he did nothing else he eliminated Scott from the heavyweight horizon.

Personally, I think Willie (Young) Stribling the best heavyweight in the world today.

Georgia has had her share of athletic heroes with Ty Cobb, recognized as probably the world's greatest baseball player; Bobby Jones, the world's greatest golf player, and now threatened with the world's heavyweight champion.

Stribling has been at times a very unsatisfactory fighter, but most of the heavyweight contenders steer clear of him, and that means something. Whether he mixes with Sharkey or Schmeling, my bet goes on the Georgia schoolboy.

Rain Halts Fifth Test Cricket Match Between Australia and England

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Play in the cricket test match between England and Australia could not proceed today owing to heavy rain. The match, which is for the "ashes," Anglo-Australian cricket championship symbol, is being played to a finish and will be resumed when weather conditions permit. As the test stands at present, Australia would appear to be in a very strong position. They were 290 runs ahead after the first innings was completed yesterday, and England had lost Jack Hobbs' wicket in their second visit to the wickets and had put on only 24 runs. Prospects are that England will have to continue on a wet wicket and be at a great disadvantage. Scores in the match are: Australia, 695; England, 405 and 24 runs for one wicket.

Flying Style, hustled into an early lead, outran her field to the head of the stretch where she bore out, carrying Miss Dick and Nanoose wide, but being quickly straightened away, displayed the most speed in the drive. School Hills, also in trouble on the turn, closed well. Mr Haney and Oregon Co-ed raced greenly but showed promise. The latter saved ground turning for home and was running third at the eighth pole. Billy Wals closed stoutly in the stretch and was gaining. Starwhim, prominent early, was eased off the pace, but lacked foot in the later stages. Tennessee tired. Valley Joe was always outrun. FRASER BEATEN IN BANFF SEMI-FINAL

Vancouver Golfer Goes Under Before Toronto Star, 4 and 3—Arnott Advances

BANFF SPRINGS HOTEL, Alta., Aug. 21.—Jack Fraser, of Vancouver, was eliminated today, from the Prince of Wales Golf Trophy event when W. J. "Bill" Thompson, of Toronto, defeated him 4 and 3 in the semi-finals, in which birdies and pars were frequent and in which Lady Luck certainly smiled a little more on the Eastern than on the Western player.

Dave Arnott, of Winnipeg, had no trouble in disposing of Lyon, of Toronto. He entered the finals by winning today's game 6 and 5. Lyon secured four pars and Arnott eight. The honors will thus either go to Winnipeg or Toronto.

CANADIANS TO BUILD UP CLUB FOR PLAY-OFFS

Forbes, Bowden, Holden and Stickney Added to Playing Roster

TWIRLING STAFF IS INCREASED TO FIVE

Holden to Appear on Mound in Tomorrow's Exhibition Game

TAKING advantage of a ruling made by the British Columbia Baseball Association which permits of the Victoria champions adding four additional players to their club for the provincial play-offs, Manager Jack Curtis announced last night that he has secured Norm Forbes and Tommy Bowden, of the Elks, and Leo Holden and Wes Stickney, of the Jokers.

Norman Forbes, rated as one of the leading twirlers in the city, will greatly strengthen the Canadians' pitching staff, as will Leo Holden and Wes Stickney. Holden's performance in the recent play-offs against the Elks caught Manager Curtis' eyes and he has decided to add him to his club roster. Stickney will be used as an outfielder and pinch hitter, while he may also be used on the mound.

Tommy Bowden, who annexed the batting crown, will be used as a substitute catcher and a pinch hitter.

With the addition of Norman Forbes, Leo Holden and Wes Stickney on the heaving staff, the Sons will have five pitchers for the provincial play-offs, with Lloyd Cann and Jack Noble completing the roll.

Manager Curtis stated last night that he will start Holden against the North Bend Tigers in the twin exhibition series tomorrow at the Royal Athletic Park. Lloyd Cann, speedball artist, will go to the mound in the nightcap. These games will be the final appearance of the Sons of Canada before journeying to Vancouver to appear in the play-offs.

Direction Is Due to Perfect Timing

By SOL METZGER

Ever watch big Archie Compston golf He's the British pro who socked Hagen for a row of goals in a special match a few years ago. My, he sure can wallop them off the tee. Got perfect direction, too. He's not like so many of us, always plunking them into traps.

One marvels at his sense of direction. It's due to perfect timing. Hard as he swings, he concentrates upon making the clubhead and hands reach a plane at right angles to the direction line at the moment of contact.

If one's swing is on line and one's hands and clubhead are on this plane at contact, the old pill is bound to travel on a bee-line for the flag. It's these simple fundamentals that concern the stars when making a shot.

English Girl Downs Dorothy Weisel in Straight Set Match

Nineteen-Year-Old Star Shows Brilliant Form in Victory—Italian Baroness Advances Along With Mrs. Harper and Miss Morrill

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 21.—Other players here may falter and drop a set now and then, but "Bouncing Betty" Nuthall, marches steadily forward through the ranks of America's foremost stars in the direction of the national women's championship.

Nineteen-year-old Betty won today, 6-1, 6-1, from slender little Dorothy Weisel, of Sacramento, Cal., while the three other survivors of the original field of fifty-seven contenders all were extended to the limit in three-set battles.

This sturdy English girl, who carries her racquet upraised between strokes and swings it like a bludgeon, beat down the defences of the Californian through sheer power, ran her from corner to corner with deep drives until she was near exhaustion, and varied her tactics now and again with soft tap shots that just wafted over the net for clean placements.

The competitive thrills that were lacking in Miss Nuthall's easy victory were found in abundance in the other quarter-finals, in which Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., defeated Ethel Burkhardt, San Francisco, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3; Mrs. Anna Harper, of San Francisco, stopped Mary Greef, of Kansas City, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, and the amazing Baroness Georgio Ciacomo Levi, of Italy, overcame Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Sharp Competition Prevails in First Day's Play for Tennis Titles

CHAMPIONS TO BE CROWNED TOMORROW

Seven three-set matches featured the opening rounds of play for the Victoria and district junior net championships yesterday afternoon on the courts of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club at the Willows. The youngsters played good tennis, and when the champions are crowned tomorrow afternoon one of the most successful tourneys in the history of the event will be recorded.

With the exception of one match, the favorites came through in routine fashion in the play for the boys under eighteen. Cliff Margison was the only select one to be extended when he was carried to three sets before shaking off George Parker, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3.

The favorites found the going harder in the girls under eighteen division, as three of them were extended to the limit in order to gain their victories. Marion Fraser showed up brilliantly to oust Mollie Sharps from further competition in three sets which were closely fought. Miss Fraser won by scores of 5-7, 6-3, 8-6. Helen Peden advanced with another extra session to win over D. Kennedy, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

In the boys under sixteen class, A. Parfitt and J. Marshall appeared in the longest match of the day's play, when the former came through in the initial set after twenty-six games, the score being 14-12. EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Bird With a Beard—The Lammergeier (Giant Bearded Vulture) of Western Asia is the largest of all birds of prey. With a length of about four feet, and a wingspread of ten feet, it can easily carry a chamois or a goat in flight. It also feeds on large tortoises which it drops from great altitudes in order to break the shell.

No Person Can Own a Cemetery Lot—Cemeteries have an exceptional legal status in line with the exigencies of public policy. Burial lots can not be seized for debt, nor can a mortgage be established on them. Mortuary laws preclude the ownership of a single lot. What is termed the ownership of a cemetery lot is merely an easement for the specific purpose of burying the human dead, and for no other purpose whatsoever.

Public Choices Show Way in Every Event And Odds Are Short

Rare Card Is Presented to Good Crowd—Jockey Pevic Has Great Day in the Saddle—George Sangster to Be Honored Today

Favorites ruled supreme at the Willows race track yesterday and form followers had the best day of the whole Island meetings so far. In the seven events public choices flashed by the wire to get the judges' nod, and startling prices were conspicuous by their absence. Another good crowd was on hand, but nobody seemed to need any extra help in carrying off their winnings, although 'most everyone appeared to be in a cheerful mood when the last event was run off and the gates opened for the homeward journey.

It was a rare card as far as short prices were concerned, and those who went out looking for box car odds to be hung up had an exceedingly off day. One race follower, who has been in attendance here for a quarter of a century, declared it was the shortest-priced day he had ever attended, which all goes to show that the thoroughbreds are beginning to find the going to their liking on the rapidly improving five-eighth-mile layout. No one of the thoroughbreds returned double figures for either win, place or show.

PEVIC SHOWS FORM

Jockey Pevic had another wonderful day in the saddle and demonstrated why he is one of the leading riders of the circuit. Pevic brought home three winners and a second in five starts. Kelly also had a good day, bringing home two winners. Sporri and Schmitz were the other winning jockeys.

Today George Sangster, who has been connected with the British Columbia Agricultural Association for the past forty years, will be honored. The veteran has had the fifth race named in his honor, the George Sangster Handicap, with a purse of $400 going to the winner. The race will be over five furlongs and will see six fleet two-year-olds going the five-and-one-half-furlong route. Mr. Sangster, who is nearing the seventy mark, will no doubt leave the stock display to witness this event.

BAG BAG SHOWS WAY

Coming along on the outside with a burst of speed on the home stretch, Bag Bag, under a skillful ride by Jockey Pevic, won the opening event over five furlongs with ease. Bull Run was second and Oregon Rose third. The winner was rated behind the pace setters for a half, moved up when ready and won by a good length. Bull Run came along fast in the stretch in copping the place berth, while Oregon Rose, the pace setter, tired. Little Cop and Babe Ruth, the public choices, were never contenders.

Bee Somers, the red-hot favorite, was easily the class of the second five-furlong gallop and won as his rider pleased. Van Loo was an easy second and Gay Lomond a good third. The winner went on top at the barrier opened up a wide lead and coasted home. Van Loo made up a lot of ground in taking the place berth. Gay Lomond closed strongly.

FLYING STYLE WINS

Flying Style, running as an entry with Miss Dick, proved to be the best in the "baby" race over five and a half furlongs and took the decision from School Hills by a length. Nanoose was third. Flying Style went to the post an odds-on favorite, broke in front at the barrier and made every post a winner. School Hills made up a lot of ground in gaining the place berth, and Nanoose did likewise in copping the show slot. Mr. Haney was fourth. Miss Dick was close most of the way, but folded up.

The old favorite, Tatters, under clever handling by Jockey Pevic, took the fourth event by a length from Flat Foot. Carlisle was third. The winner, always close, moved up on the inside on the stretch to pick up the pace setter, Flat Foot, and won handily. Carlisle closed strongly and just beat out Cas Walser in taking the show berth.

Jockey Pevic rode his second straight winner and his third of the day when he piloted Nannie Francis under the wire first in the fifth gallop. Perigrinus was second and Coeur de Lion third. Nannie Francis, always in close contention, picked up the pace setter, Willow Bramble, on the back stretch and won handily. Perigrinus saved a lot of ground on the last turn and was a good second. Coeur de Lion just beat out Swift Cop, who faltered on the last turn, to take show money.

SETH'S BACON IN FRONT

Seth's Bacon was the class of the field in the sixth race over a mile and seventy yards and won by about two lengths. Teddy McAvoy's Frank Gallor was second and Agnate third. Seth's Bacon moved to the front on the last turn home and opened up a wide lead to coast home. Frank Gallor improved his position throughout in taking the place berth. Agnate was always close. Master Rock led for three-quarters of the distance.

Going on top after the first half, Brookwood, ably ridden by Schmitz, breezed home an easy winner in the seventh race. Wickawack, the favorite, was a good second, while Billy Walz copped the show slot. Brookwood had it all his own way after the first circuit and was never in danger. Wickawack set the early pace and was always second after the winner passed him. Billy Walz, the show horse, ran as an entry with Star Whim.

CANADIANS SWEEP EMPIRE WRESTLING

Welter and Light-Heavy Events Won by Dominion Mat Men—Boxing Finals Divided

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 21. — Signaller Victor A. Stuart, whirlwind amateur heavyweight champion of England, tonight won the British Empire title, leading the Mother Country into a single win lead for honors, in the second boxing and wrestling show of the Empire Games. England captured two mitt finals, South Africa one and Scotland one.

Canada stood supreme on the mat, taking both wrestling events.

Lashing "Big Bill" Skimming, his Canadian opponent, with a never-ceasing attack, Stuart was awarded the bout on a technical knockout near the end of the second round. Skimming, his face a mass of red welts, groggy and an easy mark for the furious Briton, looked helpless when Referee Alex Sinclair led him to his corner and raised Stuart's hand in victory.

South Africa's victory was one of the biggest upsets of the night. Jacob Smith, a slim fleet-footed lad, stepped into the wiry Tim Pardoe, of England, and earned a close decision over the favored Englishman in the flyweight final

Harry Miller and F R. Meacham won their semi-final bouts for England and will battle in the finals tomorrow night. James Holland won the lightweight title for Scotland, outpointing Cosmo Ganzano, of Canada, in a slow, draggy bout.

In winning the two wrestling finals tonight, Canada's representatives brought all the Empire grappling titles to the Dominion.

In the first contest, Reg Priestly, of Toronto, gained a hard-fought victory over Harry Johnson, of England, in the welterweight division. The other bout, a light-heavyweight event, also provided plenty of action, but again England's bid for a grappling crown failed.

W McIntyre, sturdy Winnipeg finalist, met his opponent, Edgar Bacon, with courage and confidence, which rewarded him with a fall after the two had ended the first round, with a slight margin in favor of the Canadian.

SIMMONS CONTINUES SENSATIONAL HITTING

Athletics' Slugger Gets Four Out of Five to Increase Batting Mark to .388

Continuing his great hitting streak of the previous afternoon, Al Simmons slugged his way into the American League batting lead and into fourth place in the Big Six yesterday.

Simmons made four hits, one a home run, in five times at bat and brought his average up to .388, a four-point gain. His American League rival, Lou Gehrig, went hitless five times and dropped five points to .387, going from third to fifth in the Big Six standing. Chuck Klein held third place, although he dropped a point with one hit in three times at bat. Babe Ruth also made a big gain as he clouted three hits in five trips to the plate. His average went up 2 points to .360.

ENGLISH BOWLERS LEADING AT GAMES

Old Country Team Has Two-Point Margin Over Canada, Scotland and South Africa

HAMILTON, Aug 21.—England where, so far as is known, lawn bowling first originated, showed her colonies just how it was done at the tournament held in connection with the British Empire Games here, and tonight reigns supreme in this branch of athletics. Late today, while her younger proteges fought it out in an attempt to tie her efforts, old England's team rested and gazed benignantly on her children's efforts.

England started out well this morning. Her doubles team, consisting of R. T. Hills and G Wright, skip, defeated the smart Canadian pair, A. S. Reid and W. W. Moore, to obtain the doubles championship.

While England was beating Canada, New Zealand was doing the same to South Africa, emerging victorious with a score of 21 to 12.

This afternoon, Harry Allen's crew, of Hamilton, were defeated by Scotland 21-15, to leave the English rink on top of the roost.

South Africa beat New Zealand in the second rink competition of the afternoon by 19-15, and England was left alone at the top of the standing.

The standing of the competitors is as follows:

	P.	W.	L.	pts.
England	4	2	1	1
Canada	4	2	2	4
Scotland	4	2	2	4
South Africa	4	2	2	4
New Zealand	4	1	2	2

CAPITOL THEATRE For the first time in his long and brilliant career Richard Barthelmess will be seen minus a leading lady in "The Dawn Patrol," now at the Capitol Theatre all this week. The story, laid in 1915 on the British-German front, concerns the dramatic adventures of a group of "schoolboy" flyers in the Royal Flying Corps. The love in the story relates only to the strong bond of courage and valor between men.

DOMINION THEATRE Brimful of realism, of action, of suspense, of romance — with its scenes laid among the scenic wonders of Zion National Park in Southwestern Utah, and marvelous photography keeping pace with its rapid and delightful story—with Warner Baxter and Mona Maris in the leading roles—that's "The Arizona Kid," the Fox Movietone offering, which set new standards for Western talkies in its opening at the Dominion Theatre yesterday.

Columbia—"The Fighting Legion," starring Ken Maynard.

Coliseum — "Rookery Nook," featuring Ralph Lynn.

Dominion—"The Arizona Kid," with Warner Baxter.

Playhouse—"Crazy That Way," starring Joan Bennett.

Crystal Garden — Swimming and Dancing.

COLISEUM THEATRE "Rookery Nook," the British-made talkie which is being distributed in Canada by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and is now being shown at the Coliseum Theatre, is one of the few English dialogue pictures which have received unanimous praise from London newspaper reviewers.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE No more genuine and wholly pleasing entertainment has come from the audible screen in many months than is embodied in the Fox Movietone comedy hit, "Crazy That Way," now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. Joan Bennett and Kenneth MacKenna head the cast, which includes such skilful personalities as Regis Toomey, Jason Robards, Lumsden Hare and Sharon Lynn.

Jazz Masterpiece Starts All-Week Showing at Capitol

Long hailed as the outstanding masterpiece in jazz music, George Gershwin's immortal "Rhapsody in Blue" has been both pictorially and musically transferred to the screen.

The only jazz composition ever to attain symphonic rendition, "The Rhapsody in Blue," in all its moods and with all its symbolism, has been recorded in "King of Jazz," by Paul Whiteman as music, and atmospherised visually by John Murray Anderson, director.

In all its lavish musical numbers "King of Jazz" starts an all-week showing at the Capitol Theatre next Monday.

Nearly a half-million dollars' worth of American surveying and engineering instruments were shipped to other countries in the last twelve months.

THINK ALL STARS ARE MOVIE ACTORS

Milky Way Located Only in the Candy Shop by New York Children

New York, Aug. 21.—New York City is having a big laugh at its own expense—and trying at the same time to remedy the cause.

"Stars" mean movie actors to its children. A rose is a "tulip." The "Milky Way" is found in candy shops.

Urban schools are so lacking in facilities for training their children in the ways of Nature that about half of 1,200 pupils who were examined in Nature study gave the name of "any star" as John Gilbert, Mary Pickford or Janet Gaynor, according to Van Evrie Kilpatrick, director of nature garden work in the New York city schools, as reported in The New York Evening Sun.

"Can children be educated, not knowing the grass in the field, or the birds in the treetops, or the fish in the running brooks?" Mr. Kilpatrick said. "This denuding the city child of the major part of his Nature heritage has led to a woeful ignorance on his part of the simplest commonplaces of the natural world.

"A twelve-year-old boy called a rose he was wearing 'a tulip.' Twenty-one pupils out of a sixth-year class of thirty-three pupils reported that the 'Milky Way' was found in candy shops. About 50 per cent of 1,200 children examined in Nature gave the name of 'any star' as John Gilbert, or Mary Pickford, or Janet Gaynor. Less than 3 per cent of the same group of children could tell what was the most intelligent animal."

Mr. Kilpatrick, lamenting the disadvantage the city child labors under in regard to Nature, is directing the work of 244 gardens conducted by as many schools, and is constantly adding more gardens to care for the needs of more children.

"The school garden trains children in the most basic of the industrial arts—agriculture, which brings him into a further knowledge of the social and industrial world," Mr. Kilpatrick declared.—American Game Protective Association.

GOAT DISPLAY IS BETTER THAN EVER

Animals at Willows Exhibition Are of Quality Hitherto Unprecedented

This year there is a bigger entry of goats at the Willows Fair than ever before, 135 animals being displayed. This shows an increase on last year of fifteen goats and the difference is all the more marked by the fact that the entry of Angoras which has been sent from the United States on previous occasions is absent this year.

The growing popularity of goat breeding is nowhere better illustrated than by the remarkable show in the goat building, not only the quantity but also the quality of the animals showing a marked improvement, there are eighty-five Saanens, the white breed; forty-one Toggenburgs, the brown goats with white markings, and nine Nubians.

The results of judging were as follows:

... takes back supply of Chase & Sanborn's Fresh Coffee

THE following comment on Chase & Sanborn's Products from this food expert, aboard the R-100, is a tribute worthy of reproduction:

"Even before we arrived in Canada," says Chief Steward Savidge, "we had a taste of some of the good things in store for us . . . Chase & Sanborn's 'Fresh' Coffee, for instance. Throughout the voyage, everyone in the dining saloon of the R-100 enjoyed the genuine pleasure of drinking Canada's nationally preferred coffee.

"Being true Britishers, however, we had to have our tea as well, and Chase & Sanborn's Tea proved equally as delightful as their coffee.

"We are, of course, taking back a complete supply of each on the return voyage."

STANDARD BRANDS Daily Delivery Service . . . the largest fresh food delivery system in Canada . . . brings Chase & Sanborn's Tea and Coffee "fresh" to grocers, twice each week. On your table their exquisite, fresh flavor will bring the same enjoyment that has made them the choice of connoisseurs everywhere.

CHIEF STEWARD SAVIDGE of the R-100, for many years Steward on the "Majestic," served during the war with the British Submarines in Russian waters and on the North Sea. More recently, in England, it has been his privilege to serve many famous personages, among them H.R.H. The Prince of Wales and the King of Afghanistan.

Egret Is No Coward

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Be slow to judge, lest you may make
That which may prove a grave mistake.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Egret the Great White Heron had been shot. One wing had been injured so that he could not fly. It had been done by a two-legged killer with a terrible gun. He couldn't bear to see anything so beautiful live, so he tried to kill Egret, just because he was so unusual and so lovely. He had been frightened away before he could shoot again by the approach of Farmer Brown's Boy. The hunter had taken to a boat and had rowed across the Big River.

Now, of course, Egret didn't know who had shot him. He simply knew that it was one of those two-legged creatures. And when presently Farmer Brown's Boy discovered him, Egret blamed him for all that had happened. He thought it was Farmer Brown's Boy who had shot him with that terrible gun.

Like all members of the Heron family, Egret has a long and very sharp bill. He has a bill that no one cares to be struck with. When he saw Farmer Brown's Boy approaching, Egret drew back his head and prepared to fight. "I'll aim for one of his eyes," thought Egret.

Now, Farmer Brown's Boy saw that Egret was prepared to fight. He knew just how dangerous that bill was. It wouldn't do to let Egret strike him with that. No, sir, it wouldn't do at all. What could he do to avoid it?

"I wish I had my coat here," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "If I had my coat it would be easy to capture Egret. I have to have something to throw over his head."

Farmer Brown's Boy thought for a minute or two and then grinned, as he began to pull his shirt off. He would throw that shirt over Egret's head and then would be able to seize him and hold onto that long bill. Of course, Egret didn't know what Farmer Brown's Boy was planning to do. He looked as fierce as he knew how, and as Farmer Brown's Boy drew near he struck once like a flash. Farmer Brown's Boy dodged and then tossed his shirt over Egret's head. How Egret tried and tried to shake it off. He twisted and turned and he flapped his one good wing, but it was all in vain. In spite of his struggles, Farmer Brown's Boy soon had him in his arms.

Egret drew back his head and prepared to fight

"It's all right," said Farmer Brown's Boy, soothingly. "It's all right, old fellow. I'm not going to hurt you. I'm going to try to save you. I presume you think that I am the cause of all your trouble. But I'm not."

Egret is no coward. Had it not been for that shirt which covered his head and, therefore, made it impossible for him to use that great bill of his, he would have fought as long as he had breath. But when he realized how helpless he was, he stopped struggling. That was the wise thing to do. There was nothing to be gained by struggling helplessly.

Farmer Brown's Boy took care not to hurt that injured wing as he gathered Egret in his arms. He kept the shirt over Egret's head until he got a good grasp of that long bill with one hand. Then he shook the shirt loose, so that it would not smother the big white bird.

"We're all right now, old fellow," said he. "We'll head for home now. We'll see what we can do for that wing when we get there, and then we'll make you as comfortable as we can. But you'll have to be a prisoner for a while. You'll have to be a prisoner until you can use that wing."

FRECKLES

Tells How to Rid Your Complexion of These Ugly Rusty-Brown Spots

If you freckle easily, yet find these blemishes hard to remove, read what thousands of women do to fade out every last freckle and gain a clear, beautiful complexion. They use Othine and no longer dread the Summer sun and winds.

You, too, will find that after a few nights' use of this dainty white cream even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce of Othine is needed to clear the skin of these ugly blotches.

Be sure to ask at any drug or department store for Othine double strength. It's always sold with guarantee of money back if it does not remove even the worst freckles and give you a lovely, milk-white complexion. (Advt.).

ELECTION IN BRITAIN NOT EXPECTED SOON

Vote Will Be Delayed Until Indian and Imperial Conferences Are Concluded

LONDON, Aug. 21.—So far there does not appear to be a great deal of foundation for the stories which, from time to time, have made their appearance predicting a general election in Britain in the Autumn.

The far-flung campaign of educational speeches which the Conservatives have planned to launch, is not interpreted in the inner circles as evidence that the Conservatives anticipate an early election fight, but rather as proof that the Tories are girding their loins in plenty of time for the vote when it does come.

Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, recently appointed chief organizer by Mr. Baldwin, is not expected to conclude his holiday in Germany until the middle of next month. When he comes home the party machine will see the beginning of an exhaustive overhauling process.

Barring extraordinary developments, the present aspiration of all three parties is to leave the field free in the Autumn for the Imperial Conference and the round-table Indian Conference. At the Indian meeting both the Conservative and Liberal oppositions in the House of Commons will be represented

Bulls Fail in Attempt to Support General Advance; Bear Raid Reduces Gains

NEW YORK, Aug 21.—Stock market operators who endeavored to start bull movements in the last week, were forced to dig in today to permit a flurry of selling to blow over.

Speculators for the advance held their ground only in a few spots, while the list generally sagged 1 to 5 points. Net losses of more than a point were not numerous and the price index of ninety leading shares showed a net loss of only 1 7-10 points, about two-thirds of the gain of the last two sessions.

Trading continued of a wholly professional character, total sales of only 1,712,810 shares was about 100,000 shares under yesterday's turnover.

The day's selling had the earmarks of a bear drive and was accompanied by some unsettling and generally discredited rumors such as almost always bob up in brokerage circles when the market starts to slip. The decline reached rather sharp proportions for a time in the afternoon, several leading shares dropping 2 to 3 points, but short covering in the last ten minutes reduced the losses substantially.

U.S. Steel sold off 2 points, but closed down only one-half point. American Telephone lost 3 points, then regained 2. The motion picture stocks were well supported on reports of improvement in theatre attendance. Radio Keith, the day's most active feature, closed a point higher. Loews gained 2, Worthington Pump gained about 4, and International Harvester and Purity Bakeries were up 1 at the close.

The safety razor stocks were again weak features, Gillette dropping to end closing near the bottom. Auto-Strop sold off 7 and rallied only moderately. In the rails, Atchison lost 6 and Southern Railway sold off about 5, touching 75 for the first time in six years.

Warner Bros. sagged more than a point to the year's low, then regained its loss.

Firmness of leading foreign exchanges suggested possible renewal of the outflow of gold, but easy credit appeared assured until at least the turn of the month when only nominal firmness is expected. The Canadian dollar, which recently jumped to parity, returned to a premium of nearly 1 per cent and sterling cables rallied to $4.87 1-8.

In slightly increased activity the listed bond market was firm today and a brisk demand developed for seasoned utility issues. Carrier obligations continued to improve.

The foreign list was more active, with prices somewhat irregular.

AUSTRALIA TO CUT EXPENSES

Financial Emergency Conference Decides on Course to Follow

TAX LIMIT AGREED UPON

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 21.—The emergency conference of Australia's Federal authorities and State Premiers today reached a general agreement regarding the principles to be adopted to solve the country's present financial problems.

The course laid down by this agreement includes the correction through satisfactory financing of the Commonwealth's overseas position, and drastic reduction of expenditure. Budgets are to be balanced, and the agreement precludes increase of taxation.

OVERLAPPING

An Advisory Council will be appointed by the Premiers to suggest elimination of duplicating services in the Governments. The State of South Australia, whose financial plight is the most acute of any part of the Commonwealth, will be given special assistance to the extent of one million pounds sterling.

FEDERAL EXPENDITURE

Federal expenditure, it was insisted, must be reduced by about $150,000,000.

A concrete step to reduce expenditure has been taken by the Federal Loan Council, which has decided to reduce the grand total of Australia's loan programme for the current year from £24,000,000 to £15,000,000. The allocation to each state, however, will remain on the same proportionate basis as originally planned.

WHEAT MARKET CLOSES LOWER

Trade Is Largely Local—October Is Sold Against December

CASH QUOTATIONS GAIN

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—After opening lower, based on the weakness in Liverpool, local wheat prices advanced until they were 7-8 cent to 1-2 cent over the close yesterday. However, there was little of note going on beyond the fact that offerings were extremely light, sentiment a little more friendly than it has been. In the later trade Chicago, which had displayed little or no pep from the start, weakened, and Winnipeg followed in sympathy, declining about 2 cents from the earlier low marks, but recovered part of this loss later.

Trade was largely local with considerable spreading between the different months but mostly selling October against purchases of December. Export sales Wednesday afternoon and this morning were placed at 625,000 bushels of Manitobas, mostly worked by the Pool, very little being reflected in the local market.

Liverpool closed 2-8 lower to 1-8 higher when due 5-8 to 1 1-4 higher, and Russia was reported offering wheat freely at the equivalent of 2 1-2 cents under United States price levels.

There were rains or showers over parts of the corn belt, and conditions would seem to be much improved from a week ago. In the Canadian West the weather was unsettled, with showers or rains fairly general from western half of Manitoba to the mountains.

There was a little better tone to the cash market with local shippers 1-8 to 1-4 better on certain grades. Offerings continued light and the volume of business done was light, being confined mostly to odd cars. Black Sea shipments this week totaled 2,578,000 bushels of wheat, of which Russia shipped 2,104,000 bushels. Good rains have been received in parts of Australia. European weather was reported as mostly favorable. Winnipeg futures closed 1-8 to 3-8 lower.

Coarse Grain—Markets were all much stronger today and were more or less following the lead of American corn and coarse grains. The offerings in the local pit were very light, but at the same time the demand from consumptive channels was very ordinary and in the cash market the demand was for only the odd cars of oats and barley from Eastern Canada. Oats closed 3-4 to 1 1-2 cents higher. Barley 1 1-4 to 1 1-2 higher and rye 1-2 to 1 higher.

Flax—No feature; market very dull. Closing prices half higher to 3-4 lower.

Liverpool due 5-8 to 1-4 lower on Winnipeg.

UNITED GRAIN GROWERS

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—The strong financial condition of the United Grain Growers, Limited, was noted in a statement issued this afternoon by R. S. Law, the company's president, following a meeting of the board of directors.

The board authorized the payment of a 5 per cent dividend on the capital stock of the company, and cheques will be mailed on September 1 to more than 30,000 farmer-shareholders throughout the Western provinces.

Mr. Law, in a statement issued to the press, said:

"Owing to the small crop harvested in 1929 the volume of grain handled by the company was considerably reduced. The strong financial position of the company and its various subsidiaries continued to be maintained, and the directors are well pleased with the manner in which the company has come through what has been a somewhat difficult year for those engaged in the handling of grain."

NewsTopics

Last year at this time the wheat pool, if not holding its grain off the market, was at least asking a price which largely had the same effect. This year it is evidently following a different course. Winnipeg market reports from day to day tell of sales by the pool, and Chicago reports say that no general advance in the market there is expected until the pressure lessens of offerings of Western Canadian wheat. It is worth observing that despite this pressure the market is holding up well. Had similar offerings been made a year ago, with large crops in Europe and the Argentine, it seems probable that the market would have sunk far. At present impaired harvests across the Atlantic and much reduced shipments from Argentina have created a different situation. There are other influences at work also, which make it reasonably certain that the carryover from 1929 and the crop of 1930 will be disposed of, with comparatively no unsold grain at the end of the season. Increased railway earnings and increased circulation of the proceeds of the crop may be expected.

The matter of most interest to Lombard Street of late has been the further movement in the foreign exchanges in favor of sterling. The New York rate has touched the highest since the early part of the year, and the French exchange has risen to a figure that makes further withdrawals of standard gold from the Bank of England unlikely.

The opinion was recently expressed here that C.P.R. stock should be compared rather with bonds than with the stock of American railways. One reason for this is the small total of C.P.R. debentures outstanding. On most American railways there is a large bonded debt, interest on which is a first lien on net revenues. C.P.R. stock is practically in the same position as those bonds. For instance, Bradstreet's, of August 16, gives the amount of bonds outstanding on the New York Central as $786,280,477; on the Pennsylvania, $357,834,660; on the Illinois Central, $214,905,360. That for the C.P.R. is given as $3,650,000.

From comments heard in various quarters it is evident that buying power, which has come into the market on minor recessions recently, has been quite puzzling to students, says Dow Jones. It is admitted that thus far it has been impossible to learn definitely whether the demand came from important interests who are bullish, from the operators who have been working for higher prices, or from the extensive short interest. However, the most popular view is that covering has been the main source of buying. Dow Jones goes on to say that conservative observers are still standing on the side lines. Few are willing to recommend purchases except during sharp reactions on a scale.

SOLLOWAY AND MILLS LOSE FIRST ROUND IN TORONTO CITY COURT

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 21.—Magistrate Browne, in police court today, overruled the contention of A. O. Slaght, K.C., and R. H. Greer, K.C., defence counsel for I. W. C. Solloway and Harvey Mills, that they could not be indicted on the same charges in Ontario, that they were tried and convicted on in Alberta.

A. W. Rogers, of the Attorney-General's Department, chose to proceed first with the conspiracy charge.

"How can the charges in Alberta affect us here in Ontario?" asked His Worship, "there couldn't be the same set of circumstances, anyway."

Mr. Slaght claimed they were put in trial in Calgary on all charges that could be brought against them in Toronto.

Mr. Rogers stated that the judge in Calgary did not try the accused on all accounts as charged here, and said the charges against them here are entirely different.

CORN DISPLAYS LESS STRENGTH

Profit-Taking Sales Are Made on Bulge—Wheat Works Lower

ARGENTINE SALES LESS

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Prices for wheat had a moderate rally, but later pressure was heavier and the market worked lower, with corn for a time meeting fairly good commission house buying on the dips. Much ado is being made abroad about the Russian shipments of 2,104,000 bushels for the week, but little comment is made on the fact that Argentine shipments were estimated at only 515,000 bushels against actual shipments of 8,861,000 bushels a year ago. The small Plate shipments would seem to overshadow in importance the Russian shipments. There is but little question but that European requirements for imports have been heavy this year, but Spring wheat pressure is against any big advance at the moment, with Northwest receipts 181 cars against 593 cars a year ago, and Winnipeg 564 against sixty-three a year ago.

Canadian reports indicate inclination on the part of many farmers to hold their wheat unsold. Primary arrivals were 2,404,000 bushels against 2,472,000 a year ago. Prices are too low to encourage any aggressive selling, but until general buying activity becomes broader, we look for a trading market within moderate price limits.

Corn: This grain met profit taking on the bulge, best prices not being maintained. Cash basis was a little heavy, with country offerings moderate. Receipts were 211 cars estimated, with primary arrivals of 781,000 bushels, against 512,000 a year ago. Cash sales were small as there is little corn available; weather unsettled, but the crop news is not very encouraging. Down State reports indicate little old corn back while there is a good demand from feeders, with Iowa corn being shipped in at some points. On setbacks we favor the buying side of corn.

Oats were strong early but reacted somewhat with other grains. Cash sales, 52,000 bushels. Offerings to arrive extremely small.

Bids of 7 1-2 over September for choice new rye were reported. Old rye in store is slow. The market followed the general trend in wheat.

DOUGLAS FIR REGION LUMBER PRODUCTION IS CUT .13 PER CENT

SEATTLE, Aug. 21.—Lumber production in the Douglas fir region for Washington and Oregon dwindled 13.87 per cent during the first six months of 1930 as compared to the same period in 1929, a report issued today by the West Coast Lumbermen's Association revealed.

The total production for the 1930 period was 4,402,196,000 feet, a drop of 608,789,000 feet from the like 1929 period of 5,110,985,000. The mills covered in the survey operated at 56.07 per cent of capacity. The reports for both years covered practically all the sawmills in Western Washington and Oregon.

CALGARY OIL NEWS

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 21.—Drilling has resumed at Commonwealth's Milk River Test after running of casing for a water shut-off, according to Senator E. Michener, president of the company. "We have just started again," he said, "and have made a few feet to 4,380 feet." The well is exploring the lower horizons of the Devonian limestone. The casing recently run was 4⅝-inch. The company's Blood Reserve sub-surface testing is nearing completion. From information gained in shallow drilling, geologists will locate a deep test.

Unofficial reports from the Red Coulee area yesterday stated an encouraging and unexpected showing of gas was struck at the Askalta Well between 1,500 and 1,600 feet. This company was financed in Calgary. The well is drilling near that main production zone of the Montana field.

Home No. 5—Nothing conclusive has as yet been demonstrated at Home No. 5 according to field reports. Operators were still bailing after the shot of nitro-glycerine discharged in the hole on Tuesday.

Preliminary work is proceeding satisfactorily at Richfield's new well in Turner Valley, it is reported. Officials hope to have rigging completed in time to start drilling soon after September 1. The well site is just north of the producer Spoon No. 3.

Dalhousie No. 7, on a production test, is reliably reported to be yielding at the rate of about 150 to 160 barrels daily.

NORDON

We again call attention to this stock. In spite of the drastic drop in price during the last six weeks we are as strong as ever on the splendid opportunity the company offers. At anything around $1.00 per share it simply means the stock is just $1.30 MORE ATTRACTIVE than before the recent market collapse. However, we firmly believe in the future of "Nordon." We personally know and have absolute confidence in the management and directors—not only as to their integrity, but as to their EXPERIENCE AND KNOWLEDGE OF THE ENTIRE OIL INDUSTRY. We are more than satisfied with the financial interests now behind the company. We are convinced that a dollar or two means nothing in the present market value of the stock, when the full possibilities for future appreciation are realized. NORDON is one stock to BUY NOW AND HOLD, regardless of market action during the next twelve months.

Week's Progress Surveyed

(Greenshield's Weekly Review)

In the upper grades the Canadian bond market is showing pronounced strength. It has been a very long time since there has been such a scarcity of Government, municipal and first-class public utilities, and as the demand for such issues in very sizeable amounts is insistent, a further advance in prices seems to be imminent. A break on the upward side of the present deadlock between buyers and sellers would probably set in motion an advance in other divisions of the market which, up to the present, has been highly selective.

RETURNS FROM WHEAT

At the low point of Thursday's market practically all of the fifteen-cent rise in wheat that occurred in the first week of the month was eliminated. To the extent that this reaction reflected in part an improvement in growing conditions in the Canadian West, the reaction was not without a compensating feature. Even at the disadvantage of a low price level nothing is more to be desired in the interests of Canadian business as a whole than a satisfactory harvest. Estimates of the yield of wheat this year are now pivoting around 350,000,000 bushels, which would be about 50,000,000 bushels larger than the yield of 1929. It is not, however, an uncommon experience in periods of unfavorable weather such as prevailed in the early part of the month for the extent of damage to crops to be exaggerated. Accordingly it would not be altogether a surprise if Canada's yield this year eventually comes closer to 400,000,000 bushels than to 350,000,000 bushels.

Very gradually the general situation in regard to wheat seems to be undergoing improvement. The carryover of Canadian wheat in Canada and the United States as of July 31, 1930, is estimated by the Government as 127,767,751 bushels. This is approximately 460,000 bushels greater than the carryover of last year, whereas during the subnormal export movement of the Spring a much larger increase was believed to be in prospect.

DEMAND FROM EUROPE

The Argentine is virtually out of the market as an exporter at the present time, and the European demand for Canadian wheat, if not aggressive, is maintaining a steadier volume. In France, due to the severe damage to this year's crop there is already talk of a reduction in import duties on wheat. Such a reduction in turn might initiate a similar movement in other European countries, for it has not been overlooked that sooner or later the recent tendency of those countries to impose heavy duties on grain imports might eventually have an equal and opposite reaction. Such duties, while of benefit to agricultural communities, eventually lead to discontent in industrial centres because of the general raising of the cost of food. The connection may be indirect, but some significance is to be attached to recent reports of labor disturbances in Northern France.

NOT LIKE LAST YEAR

What seems reasonably certain in regard to the Canadian crop this year is that the blockade in the export movement of 1929, due in part to the withholding of Canadian supplies for higher prices, is not likely to be repeated this Autumn. A freer marketing of the crop is probable, and the Canadian transportation industry as well as general business should as a result be better off this Autumn than a year ago. Accordingly the attempt in New York this week to depress Canadian Pacific Railway shares on the basis of poor earnings, while temporarily effective, would not appear to be well timed. That earnings so far this year are substantially lower than in 1929 has long been known. If grain moves freely this Autumn, as is now expected, Canadian Pacific Railway's earnings statements should presently begin to show improvement over the earnings of the corresponding months of last year. In any event, the attempt to throw doubt on the permanency of Canadian Pacific Railway's 10 per cent dividend is regarded here as far-fetched, as the dividend has previously been maintained under conditions even more adverse than those that have prevailed in the recent past and that are likely to prevail in the near future.

COPPER OUTLOOK

While the latest copper statistics might at first sight lend themselves to an unfavorable interpretation, a closer examination reveals the fact that such is not the case. Refined stocks of the metal in North and South America as of August 1 at 322,039 short tons were up 5,277 tons as compared with the figures of July 1. But total stocks representing copper above ground in the form of blister stocks at smelters and refineries, in process and in transit, as well as refined stocks, stood at 564,251 tons, a decrease of 6,345 tons as compared with July 1 figures. Thus, for two months in succession decreases have been recorded and nearly 11,000 tons have been worked off from the record May figure of 575,143 tons. With production now on a downward trend we do not see any cause for alarm over the recent increases in stocks of refined copper as refiners, rather than have idle plants on their hands, have been evidently converting blister copper into the refined form.

A survey of the tin industry covering many years and including periods of changing fortune, which appeared recently in The Engineering and Mining World, disclose an interesting fact regarding the relationship between tin prices and supplies on hand. It is not the shortage of the metal which is responsible for the initial stages of a price advance, but the prospect of a shortage, and in the tin industry the first evidence of a declining trend in stocks on hand has been the precursor of rising prices. The economics of tin and copper may not be exactly comparable, but they are nevertheless governed by the same fundamentals, and on the above grounds an improvement in the price of copper in the near future may logically be looked for.

INDIVIDUAL COMPANIES

Individual reports coming in which Canadian investors are interested have shown this week somewhat mixed results. Agnew-Surpass Shoe Stores, the largest chain enterprise of its kind in Canada and a company in which clients of this firm have a large interest, reported for the year ended May 31 last an increase of 18 per cent in sales and an increase of 16 per cent in net profits. International Nickel's net profits for the six months ending June 30 were down to $7,833,874 against $11,228,176 in the first half of 1929. Depreciation and "other" reserves, however, were approximately $500,000 larger than a year ago and the showing that the dividend on the common stock for the half-year was fully covered can be rated as a very satisfactory performance under the conditions existing in the metal markets.

Whitney Now Expects Turn In September

(B C Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Whitney, of Wall Street Financial Bureau, says: The market dip which was expected to account for about two hours of yesterday's session, and give way later on to a resumption of advance, ran considerably longer than it should have, with the subsequent advances materially reduced from what they should be in a market which is going up any great distance. I do not think that this modification of bullishness however, interferes in the least with the idea that yesterday's dip presented you with a good buying opportunity. The change simply consists of the probability that, instead of six to nine additional points right here, we will be presented with a half dozen opportunities to buy stocks for an advance which at a slightly later date will not only include the further rise which was considered as an immediate possibility, but carry the market a considerable number of additional points if, in fact, it does not bring on what would permit of being dignified by a bull movement.

In other words, I see no reason to alter the thought that we will be given a good month on the upside in September, the only change being that you cannot expect too much in the meantime. Background conditions for this advance are as near to ideal as they ever have been in market history, with the only thing needed at the present time being one fair-sized piece of news which will permit of being construed as a fairly decent indication that a turn is being seen in business. This could come from the automobile, building, oil or copper industries, with their preference running in the order named. It might even come about through an external factor, such as a rise in silver, which would restore the world's purchasing power, or some other element which would indicate re-establishment of our former export status.

What will show up first is not nearly so important as the fact that good buying continues to be done in the present market at prices considerably higher than those where it started around the lows of last June. The thing to do is join it by using every reaction to buy stocks during their temporary periods of weakness, as later on you will not be able to do this and, instead, having to buy them on strength.

PREMIER ASKED TO SELL WHOLE CROP BY POOL

BOARD OF DIRECTORS PRESENT RESOLUTION

REGINA, Aug. 21.—A request that the Saskatchewan Government make provision for the entire 1930 Saskatchewan wheat crop to be marketed through the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool was made to the Government early this week by the directors of the pool.

The proposal is a result of the discussion of the board of directors, who are sitting all this week in Regina. The decision of the board was crystalized in the form of a resolution which has been presented to the Government.

Following the receipt of the request, Premier J. T. M. Anderson has written all members of the Legislature asking them to indicate to him by wire whether they are in favor of a provincial wheat board being set up to handle the 1930 crop in Saskatchewan.

FARMERS HIT BY LOW PRICE

Manitoba Grower States It Will Not Pay Him to Cut Oat Crop

BOARD TO ADJUST DEBTS

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 20.—Wheat prices would be pulled down almost to the level of the Canadian wheat pool's initial payment if pool farmers sell outside their organization, stated Colin H. Burnell, president of the Manitoba wheat pool, at a farmer meeting at Solsgirth, Man. He urged contract-signers to be loyal to the co-operative body.

The session, called by the District Pool Board, was the second meeting of its kind within ten days. At Carman, Man., pool farmers gathered to defeat a resolution which would have resulted in a petition to the Government to enact legislation relieving members of their five-year contract bonds. By an overwhelming majority, the Carman gathering passed an amendment asking pool men to stand by their contracts.

At the Solsgirth meeting, a resolution supporting the pool was given only half-hearted applause. The meeting broke up after much discussion, in the course of which Joseph Murray, pool member of the district, stated that it would not pay him to cut his oats and barley. He said that when he had paid the threshing and truck account on his rye, a good crop just harvested, there would be nothing left from his initial payment.

In speaking to the farm gathering, Mr. Burnell mentioned that the Manitoba Legislature was about to form a debt adjustment board. He advised the farmers to apply to the board if they were unduly pressed by their creditors. In answer to questions, he stated that pool members should retain their deduction certificates or sell them within the pool.

Explaining the working of the debt adjustment board, J. W. Pratt, M.P.P., claimed that whether the pool functioned or not the deduction certificates would be worth full value in time. He urged loyalty to the pool, saying that prices had never been as low since its formation as before.

NEW YORK SUGAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Raw sugar was quieter early today and in the absence of business prices were unchanged at 3.16 for spots, duty paid.

The refined market was unchanged with the undertone more or less unsettled. List prices were unchanged at 4.35 for fine granulated, and while some refiners announced they would advance to 4.50 tomorrow the announcement was by no means general and buyers were again inclined to limit purchases to nearby requirements and await further developments.

There are times when a perfectly good card can have no real value through taking a trick to which played.

In the above hand played by North with Hearts the trump, East opens the four of Spades and a small Spade was played from Dummy in hopes that East had led away from the King. West took the trick with the King and now Declarer has a good Spade in both own hand and Dummy. By playing the Queen at an early stage, he could later get a discard on Dummy's Ace.

Such play would ordinarily be made, but if Declarer is careful he will see that two finesses must be taken in the Club suit, and that if successful he will lose no Club, so that any discard he may take on the Ace of Spades will be of no value. Unless the cards are very freakishly distributed, he will lose one Spade and two Diamonds. Whether or not a Club is lost depends upon the position of the King and not upon an opportunity to discard one of them.

There are but two entries in Dummy unless the Jack of Hearts should happen to fall on the second round. One of these entries is the fourth Heart used to trump the third Diamond in North's hand. The other is the Ace of Spades. Therefore, when North sees fit to play the Queen of Spades, it must be overtaken with the Ace in Dummy in order to assure two finesses in Clubs. A small Spade remaining in Dummy can be trumped with the fourth Heart in Declarer's hand.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Contract: South and West pass and North opens the bidding with one Heart. The hand would permit of a no-trump bid, for the Queen and ten of Spades could not be considered a worthless doubleton. However, the no-trump bid would be somewhat shaky, while the Heart bid on the four-card suit is very strong, particularly in view of the fact that there is a second four-card suit in the hand, which is practically solid.

An opening bid of two Hearts is not made for the reason that there is not sufficient support for a forced response in either Spades or Diamonds, and should three Diamonds be the response, it would take three no-trumps or four Clubs to overcall. An assist of a forced Diamond response would not only be doubtful, but would probably be of little use.

East bids two Diamonds and South bids two Hearts, since he has a well-defined assist for a third hand opening bid.

East passes and South bids four Hearts. This latter bid is not the same as giving two assists to the Hearts at this point. A bid of three Hearts would not have been an assist but simply would have shown a preference for Hearts rather than Clubs. Although South did not have this second assist for Hearts if that were the only suit that had been mentioned, he should give it here. North's Heart suit is evidently one of four cards, so that the fourth trump in South's hand becomes more valuable than if North held a five-card Heart suit. Likewise the four clubs in South's hand must be of assistance in establishing the known side suit in North's hand.

Auction: The opening bid by North, the defensive bid by East and the bid of two Hearts by South are the same as at Contract. However, this concludes the bidding, as North does not have to strive to arrive at a game-going contract.

THE PLAY

East opens the four of Spades and West takes the trick with the King. West leads the Queen of Diamonds, and although it is a practical certainty that East has the Ace, no advantage can be derived by failing to cover with the King. East takes this trick with the Ace and leads the Jack of Diamonds, giving East and West three tricks to start with.

East has no better lead than to continue with the Diamond, for on the bidding North can derive no benefit from a discard even if he should be able to trump the Diamond in his own hand as well as in Dummy.

South trumps the Diamond and leads the three of Clubs. It is essential that this lead be made at this point instead of the lead of a trump. The Jack of Clubs winning in North's hand on the finesse against the King, three rounds of trumps are led, leaving the only trump outstanding, the five, in North's hand.

North now leads the Queen of Spades, and although it is as well able to take the trick as the Ace in Dummy, the Ace is played in order to take the second finesse in Clubs. This being successful and the King of Clubs falling on the third round, Declarer makes four odd.

"FULL TIDE"

By HERBERT GALWAY

CHAPTER XV

Dan Tremarris, owner and skipper of the fishing smack Morning Star, had drawn up his nets and was preparing to run for home when the lookout man shouted to him to put the helm hard over.

As the vessel swung round, another of the fishermen shouted that there was a man in the water and that they had run him down.

By the time the crew had reached the side of the boat the unconscious form of Anthony Ardon, still held by the lifebelt, came to the surface. Willing hands soon dragged him aboard and laid him as flat as possible on the deck.

"I'm afraid we're too late," said Tremarris as he rapidly released Tony from the lifebelt and loosened the clothing round his neck. Forcing some brandy between the young man's lips, he watched anxiously for any sign of life. Slowly a faint flush returned to the grey face as the potent spirit took effect, and Tony opened his eyes—and closed them again.

"He's alive, boys!" he cried. "Get those dry things out o' my locker. We'll pull him through yet."

An examination of Tony's head showed no mark or injury beyond a bruise on the temple caused by the glancing blow as the boat struck the lifebelt. It was also the latter that saved him from death when the fishing smack pushed him downwards.

After being rubbed down and warmly clad in the dry clothing, Tony Ardon opened his eyes and began to take sufficient interest in life to thank his rescuers.

"Go to sleep, lad," said old Dan. "Don't talk now, and we'll soon have you home between blankets."

It was fully a week before Tony recovered sufficiently to go oot after the hardships of his adventure in the waters of the Channel.

"You look like a sailorman," said Tremarris, sitting beside him on a bench which looked over the sea from the cottage garden, "yes, you look like a sailor, but your hands have never been to sea yet, I'll be bound."

Tony looked at his rescuer and smiled. "I'm just as much amazed as you are," he said quietly. "I came off a ship and must have fallen overboard, but how I came to be there, I haven't the faintest notion."

"Don't know how you got there?" exclaimed the old fisherman. "What was the name of the ship? I don't want to know your own name unless you care to tell me."

"You're a friend indeed!" said Tony, replacing his hand on the speaker's arm. "I have nothing but what I stand up in, so I can't reward you for your——"

"Don't talk about rewards!" interrupted the fisherman. "I don't take pay for rescuing a fellowman from death. P'haps as you think I did this for money we'd better part as soon as you're well enough."

"No, no!" cried the young man. "Forgive me! I did not mean that! I know you are above such things, but here am I—destitute—come from nowhere, and I can't remember my own name."

"Can't remember your name?" Dan Tremarris whistled in astonishment. "Well," he went on after a pause. "You'll stay here, lad, till it comes back to you, and I'll call you Jack Seacum because you come from the sea!" He laughed heartily and slapped Tony on the back. "How will that suit you—eh? Jack Seacum?"

Tony gripped the horny hand which grasped his. "Splendid!" he agreed quietly. "And I'll be a sailor in real earnest for all our sakes."

Dan Tremarris had lost three sons in the war and he was glad of help given by the stranger, who became known to all the fisher folk as Jack Seacum.

"This is your new brother—come from the sea," laughed the old man, introducing Tony to his daughter Mary. "He's going to take the place of my lads, and I'm sure he'll be a credit to all of us."

"I'll try to be," smiled Tony, gripping the small brown hand of the girl, who blushed under her healthy tan as she shyly raised her brown eyes to his.

During the period of convalescence "Jack Seacum" (as he now was) devoted his time to work on shore, and he spent many hours mending nets under the instructions of Mary Tremarris. Her deft fingers accomplished the task with amazing rapidity, and Jack found his fingers "all thumbs" when trying to do the same.

"I don't seem able to do this," he smiled. "At least not to do it as you can."

"But I've been doing it for years and years—ever since I was a child," cried Mary.

Jack Seacum laughed. "Well, that's not so very long ago, is it?"

"I don't know. I'm twenty now. So it's a good time since, anyhow."

The net rapidly took shape and strength as the girl manipulated the tough cord, and the young man wondered how her fingers tolerated the pulling and tightening as each mesh was completed.

Suddenly she gave a little cry of pain. The creosoted cord had cut into the flesh as she was fashioning a particularly difficult knot.

Jack tore a strip off a pocket handkerchief he had in his pocket and, dipping it in water, bound up the wound.

"It's nothing," blushed Mary, unused to such attention. "I often cut myself mending nets, and you've spoilt a quite good handkerchief. What do these letters mean?"

"What letters?" asked her companion.

She held the torn linen by the corner. "These, A.A. Those are not your initials, are they?"

Jack Seacum stared at the monogram and scratched his head.

"They may be," he said, half to himself, "but I can't remember. Your good old father called me 'Jack Seacum,' and Jack I'm going to remain until I know better."

Their conversation was interrupted shortly afterwards by Dan Tremarris, who asked if Jack would care to give them a hand on the fishing ground that night.

"I'd love to!" he said. "I'm not much good at making nets, so I'll be glad of the chance to be useful in fishing with them."

The moon was full and the night chill, with a brisk southwesterly wind, when Dan Tremarris and his crew came to the beach to embark on the smack Morning Star, which was tossing on the rising tide like a hound impatient of the restraining leash.

Unknown to them, Mary was watching from her bedroom window. Why she sat there watching a scene that happened nightly she could not have told herself. But she loved the sea and all connected with it, and tonight . . . well tonight . . . She pressed closer to the little curtain that hid her from view. Her father was speaking. . . . Why didn't they get into the boat?

"Where's Jim—Jim Pengelly?" he called to someone in the shadow. It's time we got away."

There was no response from the man concerned, but a figure enveloped in a shawl came down to the beach and called that her son Jim had been "took bad" and could not take his place in the boat that evening.

The skipper expressed his sorrow and hoped that the sick man would soon be well again. When the woman had gone he looked doubtfully at the clouds that lay thick and heavy low down on the horizon.

"There's wind over there, and I don't like going shorthanded, but I'm afraid it'll have to be. Now, then, all together, lads!"

The smack was pushed off and the last man vaulted into the boat. Just as it was fairly afloat a small figure in oilskins, sou'wester and sea boots clambered over and sat heavily down on the heap of nets.

The sail was up and the Morning Star was dancing over the waves as though reveling in her freedom, when Dan Tremarris came aft to settle down until the fishing ground was reached.

He looked anxiously at the bank of clouds which was now breaking up into ragged wisps, and occasionally obscuring the moon, then he took the helm from one of the crew and glanced along the boat with a feeling of misgiving at the fact that they were a man short.

He looked again. They were not shorthanded. Well, then how . . . For a breathless moment he thought one of his boys had returned from "over yonder" to help them, and the shock made his heart almost stop beating.

"Now, my lad," he called at length, "where did you come from?"

The small figure came over to him.

"I thought, as you were shorthanded, I would put on the clothes Ben left when he went over there, and help you!"

The skipper lifted the brim of the sou'wester and cried out in amazement.

"Mary! Are ye mad, lass?"

"No, father," replied Mary Tremarris. "I'm going to do my share. I can take risks as well as you. And I'm sure the boys would tell me to do it if they could."

Without another word Dan Tremarris gripped the helm harder and gazed across the trembling waters with eyes filled with pride and foreboding.

MAN NEARLY FAINTS WHEN TOLD OF NEWS; THOUSANDS SEEK JOB

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—The Toronto branch of the employment office of Canada was the scene of considerable excitement and some pathos yesterday. For the second day in succession nearly 1,000 men lined up hoping to get one of the jobs at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Officials, hearing there were some non-veterans in the line, sent out a message saying there were not jobs for those men. The message became garbled in transmission, and the men became excited and began pushing. One man fainted from the suffocating pressure.

The unconscious veteran was taken into the office. When he came to it was found he had been waiting at the door since 10 o'clock last night. He was given a job, and almost fainted again on hearing the good news.

Driving Dangerously

David Wright, accused of driving a truck to the common danger, pleaded guilty to the offence in the city police court, yesterday, and was fined $25.

On a ship which recently arrived at Liverpool, England, from Australia and Africa, were 103 boxes of kangaroos.

P.G.E. SEEKS POWER RIGHTS

Would Develop 150 Horsepower From Seton Creek for Shops

NO OBJECTION IS RAISED

Application for the right to develop 150 horsepower of electrical energy on Seton Creek, flowing out of Seton Lake, was made by the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Major J. C. MacDonald, comptroller of water rights, and the Provincial Water Board yesterday morning. The application was unopposed.

Power developed by the undertaking, if approved, would be used in the yards and shops of the railroad, and for the supply of residents of Lillooet, it was stated.

MOUNTAINEERS FIND NEW HIGH ALTITUDE ROUTE IN ROCKIES

BANFF, Alta., Aug 21.—A spectacular high-line trail ride about 7,000 feet above sea level from Banff to Lake Louise is feasible, according to Jim Brewster and J Murray Gibbon, who returned to Banff last night from a scouting expedition which they made on foot over the gap which still exists on this route.

Leaving Eldon, twenty-seven miles west of Banff, they climbed over timber line to a ridge from which they looked down on the little-known glacier-fed Taylor Lake, and then, following the 1,000-foot contour, reached the Consolation Lake Trail leading to Moraine Lake. The spectacular trail they blazed commands a magnificent view of the glacial country north of the railway west as far as the Bow Lakes and south to Mount Assiniboine.

This high-line trail from Banff to Lake Louise passes seven glacial lakes and will probably be known as the Glacial Lakes Trail. It is sixty miles long and will probably be used for the annual official camping trip next year by the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies.

FALLING FROM WHARF YOUNGSTER DROWNED

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—Apparently falling from the wharf where she was playing, Mary Elisabeth Parkinson, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Parkinson, Vancouver, was drowned at Grafton Bay, Bowen Island, yesterday.

The tragedy occurred while Mr and Mrs. Parkinson, who were camping with their family at the bay, were out in a rowboat some distance from shore. They left the girl on shore minding her three-year-old brother.

When the parents returned from their trolling expedition the baby was seated on the wharf, but they could find no trace of the girl.

A frantic search of the water near the wharf revealed the girl's body, which was recovered by Mrs. Joan Wilkinson, another camper.

LEADERSHIP

The Ford is Outselling Every Other Car in Canada by a Large and Constantly Increasing Margin

THE Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, was organized twenty-six years ago. The business was started in a small frame building and the entire first year's production totaled only 117 cars.

Today the fine modern plant covers many acres of ground and the average payroll is in excess of $11,000,000 a year. The first force of 17 men has grown to a peak of 7500, and the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is one of the leading industrial organizations of the Dominion. Canadians may well be proud of the Ford, for it is practically all made in Canada, of Canadian materials, and by Canadian workmen.

That the public appreciates the unusual value built into the Ford is shown by its ever-increasing popularity. In many sections, 50% to 70% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

Following are just a few of the many features that make the Ford a value far above the price:

THE NEW FORD TOWN SEDAN

ECONOMY—You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive. During the life of the car, the saving on operation, up-keep and depreciation will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost of the car.

RELIABILITY—The new Ford has been built to endure. Every part has been carefully made of good materials to give you many years of satisfactory service. Many of the new Fords have already gone 50,000, 75,000 and 100,000 miles.

SPEED AND ACCELERATION—The new Ford will do 55 to 65 miles an hour. Everywhere you go you note its power on the hills and its unusual acceleration in traffic.

ROADABILITY—From all over the Dominion come letters telling of the good performance of the new Ford on rough roads and through heavy mud and sand. In winter, particularly, it has successfully traveled many roads once thought impassable.

COMFORT—Every Ford car is equipped with special transverse springs and four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers. The steel-spoke wheels, low unsprung weight, three-point chassis suspension, and the torque-tube drive also add to its easy-riding comfort.

SAFETY—In addition to fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, the new Ford brings you the added safety of a shatterless glass windshield. By reducing the dangers of flying glass, it has prevented many injuries in automobile collisions.

THE STRENGTH OF STEEL—The enduring strength of steel makes the new Ford a sturdy, rugged car. Nearly forty kinds of steel are used in the chassis alone.

RUSTLESS STEEL—Evidence of the high quality built into the Ford is shown by the use of Rustless Steel for the head lamps, radiator shell, hub caps, cowl finish strip, tail lamp and other exterior metal parts. It will not rust, corrode, scale or tarnish in any kind of weather. Its bright luster will last for the life of the car.

A SMOOTH-RUNNING CAR—There are more than twenty ball and roller bearings in the new Ford—an exceptionally large number. They insure smoother operation, save gasoline, give more speed and power, decrease noise and increase the durability and efficiency of the transmission gears.

New Low Ford Prices

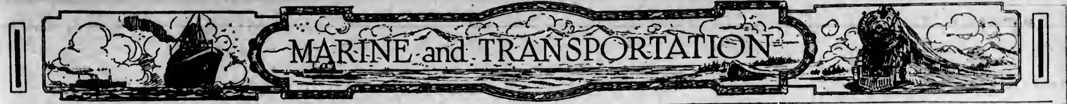

There is a Ford car for every need and purpose. You have your choice of a variety of colors in each body type. The Ford dealer will gladly demonstrate the car over any roads you wish.

LOCAL FLYER HAS VARIED EXPERIENCES

Alaska-Washington Airways Pilot Back From Service in North

MADE FLIGHTS FOR STRETCHER CASES

Back again at the controls of a Fairchild plane on the Alaska-Washington Airways routes between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle, "Pat" Ranahan has things to tell about a flyers' experiences in the North, where he has been stationed all Summer, with headquarters at Juneau.

The Airways Company operated several planes in Alaska during the past Summer, Ranahan being employed in connection with a flying contract which called for so many flying hours, his duty being to visit the traps of the Skinner & Eddy and Libby, McNeil & Libby corporations. This employment has been of great benefit to the packers, Mr. Ranahan stated. Passing over the traps, the flyer would take the number of fish displayed in figures on a board, going from one to another, and returning to headquarters with the information, to obtain which days were necessary under the old system of dispatching boats on the chance of getting a load.

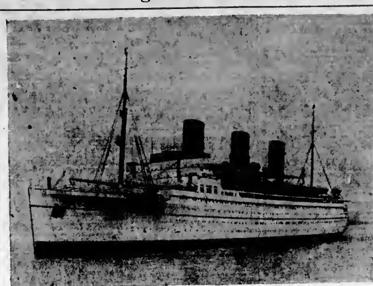

Landing experiences were many and varied, the plane having to alight under all manner of conditions. Part of his flying time was taken up in policing the fishing areas during prohibited periods, and as a result fishermen fishing illegally were apprehended and fines to the extent of $10,000 collected. He also made two trips into the interior of Alaska on emergency flights, bringing out two stretcher cases to the hospital at Ketchikan.

With Gordon McKenzie, Ranahan is at present sharing flying with the Fairchild until the new Lockhead arrives in early September, when they will each have a ship, when they will take care of the double-head service which the Airways Company finds will be necessary, particularly in connection with the evening trip.

EXCURSION VESSEL MAKES MANY TRIPS

The present week has been a busy one for the popular excursion steamer Princess Patricia. On Monday the flier took an excursion party from Vancouver to Jervis Inlet. Tuesday, a good number of travelers went from Victoria to Vancouver, where they spent five hours. On Wednesday the Patricia was busy with another Vancouver excursion, going to Seaside Park. Thursday she brought an excursion here from Seattle. Today the Patricia will make her regular round trip from Victoria through the Gulf Islands, and tomorrow will arrive here with an excursion party from Vancouver aboard.

RUTH ALEXANDER IN

The Ruth Alexander, Capt. P. Landstrum, Pacific Steamship Company, berthed at Rithet Piers from California ports shortly after 12 o'clock this morning with a full list of passengers aboard, a number of whom debarked here. The Ruth proceeded to Seattle two hours later, and was due to arrive at the latter port at 7 o'clock this morning.

BEOTHIC NOW REPORTED AT DEVON ISLAND

Government Vessel Experienced Difficult and Stormy Trip

MOUNTED POLICE CONSTABLE HURT

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—After thirty hours of battling with storms, during which the ship was swept by tremendous seas from stem to stern, and one Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer suffered a dislocated shoulder in saving himself from being carried overboard, the Department of the Interior's Arctic patrol steamer Beothic safely made the passage across the northern part of Baffin Bay and reached Dundas Harbor, Devon Island, on August 19.

Wireless messages, received at the Northwest Territories and Yukon branch of the Department of the Interior from the Beothic, indicate that this is by all odds the most stormy and difficult trip in the North the staunch steamship has ever had. A R.C.M.P. constable got up from bed and started to cross the deck, was knocked down, and to save himself from going overboard he grasped a rope. He held on, but in the fall, dislocated his shoulder.

On August 19 the Beothic arrived at Dundas Harbor and found all well. After unloading supplies there the expedition will steam westward along Lancaster Sound in the effort to re-provision the cache at Winter Harbor, Melville Island.

CHARACTER OF CART DENOTES THE CASTE

Filipino Social Scale Graduated by Style of Vehicle People Affect

Social status means a great deal to the native inhabitants of Manila. This comes out most clearly in methods of getting about the city, which is larger than most people realize—approximately 525,000 at the present time.

There are four castes among the Filipinos; those who walk the lowest and progressively higher in the social scale are those who use respectively the following types of carts: the Caratella, the Caramatta and the Calesa.

Incidentally the Caratella, Caramatta and the Calesa are all two-wheeled carts hauled by small horses. This rather primitive type of cart results in some ludicrous sights whenever an ambitious Filipino overloads his cart. The lightweight horse is promptly and firmly hauled up in the air. His struggles are powerless against a ruthless law of Nature until his suddenly awakened master dashes to unload the cart. There are many other colorful features to the Philippines which make them a very worthwhile place for the tourist to visit.

Few cities are located more beautifully than is Manila on the shores of a very large and brilliantly beautiful bay. A fringe of high mountains forms a striking background for the capital of the Philippines.

The two great around-the-world cruises sponsored jointly by the Cunard Line and Thomas Cook & Son will each stop at Manila, their itineraries reveal. The passengers of the Franconia and the Samaria will have an opportunity to see this colorful city and the many good effects of American colonial administration. The Franconia will also stop at one of the less civilized towns of the Philippine Islands, Zamboanga.

ADMIRALTY COURT IS TO SIT IN VICTORIA EARLY IN SEPTEMBER

There will be a sitting of the Admiralty Court here on Tuesday, September 2. This sitting has been set by Mr. Justice Martin for the purpose of hearing evidence with regard to the seizure of three fishing vessels which were taken allegedly in Canadian waters in violation of the law. These vessels were American, and were taken to Prince Rupert following their seizure. They are still held there by the deputy marshal of the Admiralty Court.

Mr. Justice Martin will take the evidence in the cases in the courthouse in Victoria.

John A. Dolan, general agent at Seattle of the Erie Railroad, was a visitor in the city yesterday, calling on acquaintances along transportation avenue. Mr. Dolan will return to Seattle today.

Great Reception Planned By San Franciscans for Captain Mayer and Crew

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—A hero's welcome for Captain W. R. Meyer and his officers and crew of the steamship Ventura, who rescued passengers and crew of the liner Tahiti, is being planned for his return to San Francisco. A huge civic celebration beginning with the docking of the Ventura, September 1, is being arranged by city officials and members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

ACT UNPARALLELED

An elaborate welcome was decided upon at a meeting of the junior chamber, when Captain S. S. Sandberg, United States shipping board commissioner, described the rescuing of those on the Tahiti as "an heroic act, unparalleled in the annals of Pacific shipping." He suggested New York would "go wild" over such a hero as Captain Meyer.

The steamship Maunganui will replace the Tahiti on the South Sea run, Union Steamship Line officials announced.

WILD HOGS OF SEA CAPTURED IN NOVEL WAY

HARPOONER STANDS IN SWAYING PULPIT

Up and down both coasts of America, hundreds of men are hunting "wild hogs of the sea." In scores of comparatively small boats they bring back a new food supply similar in taste, texture, color and nutritive value to the best corn-fed pork.

Against the eight cents a pound which the American farmer received as an average for his carefully-grown pigs in 1926, these maritime hog hunters are paid thirty cents on the Atlantic and twenty cents on the Pacific, an average of twenty-five cents. Where a 400-pound porker nets $30 to $35 to his owner, a swordfish of the same weight will put $100 or more into the pocket of the harpooner, writes John E. Lodge in the September Popular Science Monthly.

VETERAN KILLER

Crews on the swordfish-hunting vessels range from two or three to a dozen men. One of the most successful swordfishermen on the Pacific Coast, who has been killing wild hogs of the ocean for more than forty years, operates his own twenty-six-foot boat of which he is owner, skipper, mate, engineer and crew. On his voyages he remains away from port two to four days, depending on the catch, and he has killed more than 800 swordfish in his years of hunting them. One-man deep sea fishing of any kind is exceedingly dangerous, however, and few will risk swordfish harpooning without at least one companion.

The distinguishing mark of a swordfishing boat is a plank, fifteen or twenty feet long, depending on the size of the vessel; twelve inches wide and three or four inches thick, extending straight out from the bow and rising at an angle of about twenty degrees from the deck. The outer end of this plank is equipped with a platform, two feet square, surrounded by a waist-high railing of iron pipe.

OCCUPIES PULPIT

The platform, which rides ten or twelve feet above the water, and bobs about like the tip of a trout rod, is called the "pulpit." This is the precarious post occupied by the harpooner. His weapon is an oak-handled, barb-tipped spear, eighteen or twenty feet long. This he does not throw, as does a whale harpooner, but thrusts deep into the back of the swordfish, making sure the barb has "taken hold" before he lets go.

Official reports have been made of swordfish which have driven their weapons through ten inches of copper sheathing, oak planking and pine timber. A tuna bait boat recently returned to San Diego with the sword of a broadbill projecting through six inches of planking.

MARINE YARD BUSY

Getting ready for bigger business, the ways at the G. B. Nurdie, Limited, plant on the Industrial Reserve are being remodeled, and when the work is completed the firm will be in a good position to handle yachts, tugs and scows of considerable size.

The firm reports a good share of business right along. The Della, of the Island Tug & Barge Company's fleet, was up for overhaul, and was launched Wednesday, and the Sedgley, Captain Homer's towboat, will be hauled out today for general overhaul.

PRESIDENT SHIPS DUE

Running on time, the Ss. President McKinley, American Mail Line inbound from ports in the Orient, will reach William Head shortly after 5 o'clock, where she will remain until midnight, being due at Seattle at 7 o'clock Saturday morning. On Saturday afternoon the Ss. President Jackson, of the same line, will arrive at Rithet Piers from Seattle outbound to Yokohama, her first port of call.

Northern Fishing Areas Closed for Brief Season

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—Salmon fishing in the Nass and Skeena fishing districts and seining areas 5 and 9, which include the Butedale and Klemtu districts, will be closed on Friday of this week for conservation purposes, according to Major J. A. Motherwell, Dominion fisheries inspector. It is the intention of the inspector to reopen the Nass and Skeena areas in a week's time for the Autumn varieties and, as soon as weather permits, to reopen the Butedale and Klemtu sections for chums.

The reason for this action, as outlined by Major Motherwell, is to permit the last of the sockeye run to the Nass to pass safely through the spawning grounds for conservation purposes. In the case of the seining areas 5 and 9, the reason is that, owing to the unusually dry weather, a reasonable portion of the runs has not yet passed to the spawning grounds. At Massett Inlet, in the Queen Charlotte Islands, the run of pinks has at last arrived and supplies are satisfactory, states Major Motherwell.

THE PROBLEM OF GAS PAINS

Many people think that headaches and colds are the most common ailments of the human family, but judging from my experience with thousands of sick people I have found that gas pains usually cause more distress among the sick than any other symptom.

Wherever we read of deaths or injuries from gas we usually think of gas escaping from stove or pipes, but hundreds of people are dying every day from a much more deadly gas formed right inside the body under certain conditions. There are other millions that are slowly developing functional and chronic disorders because of the continued irritation of stomach or intestinal gas.

The digestive organs have only a limited space in which to work and when organs are unnaturally pressed against each other by gas it is not long before distress and disease develop.

Gas pains may be severe enough to cause the patient to double up in agony. Those with gas usually find it hard to sleep. The rate and action of the heart may be much affected during an attack. In fact, the exciting cause of the majority of deaths from heart failure is the pressure of gas against the heart.

An excessive amount of gas in the stomach or intestines causes belching or the passing of gas from the bowel, and is a great source of discomfort. Most people, particularly as they grow older, find themselves literally walking gas factories without any understanding of how to bring about a cure.

One of the reasons for the frequent occurrence of flatulence is because it accompanies so many other disorders. There is scarcely a tubercular case that does not complain about flatulence, usually more than about the tuberculosis.

Trouble with the digestive tract or with the organs connected with it, such as the liver and gall bladder, is always accompanied by flatulence. Asthma and heart trouble are always made worse by pressure of large amounts of gas against the diaphragm. Those who are suffering from any form of heart derangement usually are found to have large gas pockets when examined under the x-ray. Many pelvic disorders are made worse by the distension of the intestines with toxic gases which push and press against the delicate pelvic organs.

Gas pains of a peculiarly acute character often attend appendicitis. Many pains during these attacks are due to the sore and inflamed intestines around the appendix being distended and pushed out of place by gas.

A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed for the reply.

Departing from the usual custom of presenting history in paragraphs, Selworthy, an Exmoor village, recently presented the story of "Lorna Doone," whose plot is laid in Exmoor. The pageant was given on Selworthy's old world village green, and many taking part are descendants of men who might have fought with the Doones, the outlaws who play so large a part in the story. One of the episodes was the wedding scene, and another the fight between Jan Ridd and Carver Doone.

NORTHERN AREA WILL HAVE SURPLUS CROPS

Growers From Prince George to Prince Rupert Ask Aid With Marketing

Arrangements were completed between the Provincial Department of Agriculture and the Canadian National Railways yesterday for an educational drive in the interests of co-operative marketing, to be carried on this Fall in farming areas from Prince George to Prince Rupert.

Farmers in the area, it was explained by W. Wallace Duncan, director of marketing for the province, have developed a surplus of products above local needs and are asking assistance in the development of carload shipments to other points within the province. Harry Bowman, district agriculturist, and T. Devlin, of Winnipeg, conferred with the department yesterday on details of the plan.

Mr. Bowman and Mr. Duncan will make a tour of the district at the time of the seed fair, to be held in November, when details of the co-operative carload shipment system will be outlined to growers in the area. Shipment of surplus produce in carload lots, to take advantage of lower freight rates under the system, is being carried on with success at other points in the province. This year the Prince George and Northern area generally will have more produce on hand than will be required in the area.

BOMBS OF EVIL ODOR HURLED INTO THEATRE

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21.—Many patrons of the Colonial Theatre, corner of Granville and Dunsmuir streets, were inconvenienced last evening when several "stink" bombs were hurled into the rear exit door opening on the lane.

An earlier informed police who investigated that he saw an automobile speeding south in the lane immediately after the evil-smelling bombs were thrown. It was driven by a young man, he said.

CANADIAN POSTMEN NAME NEW OFFICERS

D. W. Rebder, of London, Chosen President of Association — To Meet Triennially in Future

CALGARY, Aug. 21.—W. Rebder, of London, is the new president of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers. He was elected at the closing session of the twenty-fourth biennial convention of the association here.

Alex McMordie, of Toronto, one of the founders of the association, who has been secretary for the past forty years, succeeded in having the convention accept his resignation. For the next three years he will be merely grand adviser to the new secretary, John J. Reeves, of Toronto, who yesterday laid down the reins of office as president of the F.A.L.C.

Mr. Rebder, the new president, was the vice-president of the organization for the past two years. He is succeeded in this office by J. W. Pitchett, of Toronto.

Joel Serre, president of the Montreal branch, was elected second vice-president, and T. Aiken, of Edmonton, was chosen third vice-president.

The delegates decided that in the future, instead of holding the convention every two years, that they would hold it triennially. Ottawa will be host to the next convention, which will be held in 1933.

MAYOR ANSCOMB WELCOMES CLUB

Insurance Representatives of Manufacturers' Life Open Sessions Here

MEMBERS ENJOYING VISIT

The first session of the Western One Hundred Thousand Club of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company held yesterday forenoon proved an interesting one to the members present. It was presided over by Alexander Mackenzie, of Toronto, manager of agencies, who is very popular among the agents and who made the proceedings most interesting to them all.

Mayor Anscomb attended the opening and extended to the party a hearty welcome to the city expressing the hope that they would enjoy themselves and that they might return in the near future.

The mayor was thanked heartily for his kind reception by Mr. Mackenzie.

The general session was confined to the members of the club, as the discussions are made very informal so that the fullest advantages may be derived from them by the agents in attendance.

H. B. Berwick, of the field service department at Toronto, and Dr. S. C. Mooligomery, assistant medical officer, each opened discussions, the former dealing with the opportunities in the profession and the latter with what constituted a standard risk. The discussion which followed these address was far-reaching and beneficial, it was reported at the following session.

In the afternoon the party was taken over the Malahat on a sight-seeing trip which was heartily enjoyed. In a few instances members forewent the pleasure of the trip for the purpose of fulfilling engagements on the golf courses in the city. One of those who engaged in golf was Mr. Mackenzie, who is a very busy man in connection with the duties of his office and who is enjoying to the fullest the opportunities for spending as much time as he can on the city golf links.

He is delighted with Victoria and expressed the opinion that residents of the city should feel highly privileged to be able to enjoy the delightful surroundings which are met with in and about Victoria. He is, he said, taking the fullest advantage of the opportunities of enjoying these while he is here.

There will be another session of a business character this morning at the Empress Hotel by the club. The afternoon of today will be left quite free for the visitors so that they may choose their own forms of entertainment in and about the city.

VALUE OF COLOR IS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

G. H. Southwell Gives Unusual and Interesting Address at Rotary Luncheon

The value of color as an advertising asset to British Columbia formed the subject of an interesting address made at yesterday's meeting of the Rotary Club, by George H. Southwell, artist attached to the Provincial Bureau of Information.

Not so many years ago, said Mr. Southwell, who was introduced by Rev. M. W. J. Bruce, president of the club, it was the fashion among the Anglo-Saxon races to depreciate the use of color, and to affect sombre and funereal shades.

The present generation, however, was fully "color-conscious." It was responsible for a renaissance of susceptibility to the value of color, and this feeling should be given the fullest scope in British Columbia as a means of bringing tourists to the country.

COMPARISON MADE

The speaker compared this province with California, where he had recently done a considerable amount of work. In California, he said, the greatest difficulty experienced by the artist was the fact that he had to work almost entirely with yellows.

"Even the water in California lacks the translucent flashes which one gets on the Coast of this province," he said. "In British Columbia we have the blue of the Rivers, combined with the lingering twilights of the north. This is a country of beautiful sunrises and sunsets. Why should we not boast about these things and advertise them?"

Councillor Gladwell, of Richmond, Surrey, was introduced by the president, and extended his thanks to the members for the welcome he had received. Two excellent vocal solos were rendered by Wynne Davies, accompanied at the piano by Fred Nelson.

FLORISTS SPEEDING TO HOLD CONVENTION IN SAN FRANCISCO

Sweeping westward, a great delegation of members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association are on their way to San Francisco to meet there in convention, September 1 to 5.

These florists, who enable you to "Say It With Flowers-by-Wire" anywhere in the world at any time, are coming from all over the United States and Canada and will visit fourteen of the States and five of the Provinces of Canada.

Of the local F.T.D. members, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown, of Brown's Victoria Nurseries, Limited, will attend.

The first recorded telegraph order was in 1892, but it was not until 1908 that a group of florists, acquainted with one another, got together and agreed to exchange wire orders of flowers. They were a gallant band of fifty-seven making history in the florist industry.

Today there are 5,862 members of the F.T.D. in the United States and Canada alone, and some 794 throughout the rest of the world. Today your telegraph order of flowers, when sent through an F.T.D. florist displaying the winged mercury in his shop, is guaranteed. There is an organization back of every F.T.D. order equaled in no other business.
